A home for disabled —over the rainbow?

by PAM BIGFORD

Billy is a physically handicapped 9-year-old.

He is confined to a wheelchair. His family feeds him, dresses him and helps him in whatever he does, wherever he goes.

Billy will attend Kirk Center for the handicapped in Palatine until he is 21 years old. There he receives a normal education as well as physical and occupational therapy.

HIS SHORT-RANGE future is certain. But it is the long range that worries his parents. After Billy becomes 21, they still want him to receive therapy for his handicap and enjoy life.

Keeping Billy at home for the rest of his life is one of two options for his family. The other is to send Billy to a residential facility in another state because nearby facilities that serve persons with handicaps as severe as Billy's are only a dream.

There are other persons besides Billy's parents in the Northwest suburbs who are faced with the same dilemma about their physically handicapped children. Last spring some of them got together and decided to try to solve their own problem.

They formed a group called Over the Rainbow Assn., and their goal is to build a residential facility in the Northwest suburbs for young adults who have severe physical handicaps requiring constant care.

"THERE ARE schools for children who have physical as well as other handicaps, but after they are 18 years old, there are very few places that can provide the amount of care that they need," said Rosalyn Morgen, a member of the group.

Mrs. Morgen said the residential facilities in this area for handicapped adults do not provide the extensive care that involves help with functions as basic as eating, dressing and toileting. These adults may or may not be able to even move their own wheelchairs or get up out of bed.

The Meadows in Rolling Meadows is a residential facility for the handicapped, but Director Byrn Witt said residents there are primarily mentally retarded. Those who do have physical handicaps can function for the most part by themselves, he said.

Clearbrook Center also has a very limited residential facility in Arlington Heights, but residents there are mentally retarded and either work in the community or in Clearbrook's sheltered workshop. Persons who need extensive physical care would not be accom-

Village nixes social aid commission

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night rejected a proposal calling for the creation of a permanent social services commission.

The recommendation from a special social services committee formed last March called for the abolishment of separate youth, senior citizen and housing commissions in the village. The permanent social services commission would, instead, have representatives from those three groups.

Former Village Pres. Ralph Clarbour, chairman of the special social services committee, said he was disappointed, but not surprised at the board's decision.

The motion to create a permanent commission was rejected 7-1, with only Trustee Richard Durava dissenting.

THE BOARD did approve evaluation procedures recommended by the Clarbour committee, but delegated the work to the village board's finance committee.

"As a member of the finance committee, I don't feel qualified to evaluate these programs. Too often, their recommendations come in the form of sheer advocacy," Durava said.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said the abolishment of the existing social service committees would be "a step backward."

"I also believe the abolishment of these committees would be a real slap in the face to every senior citizen and youth in this community," Ryan said.

TRUSTEE FRANK Palmatier also opposed the creation of a permanent social services committee, saying "I can't see dispensing with the manpower that has done such good work in the past."

The permanent committee also was opposed by spokesmen for the youth, senior citizens and housing commissions.

James Ewart, chairman pro tem of the youth council, said it would be difficult for a consolidated committee to effectively evaluate youth counseling programs because of the confidentiality involved.

"The youth council has close working arrangements with these counseling agencies to get a feel of what is actually being provided. You need our opinion to get effective evaluation," Ewart said.

Pat Gardner, president of the housing commission, urged that it continue existence to help administer the village's new housing assistance plan.

Dr. John Gianopulos, chairman of the senior citizens commission, charged that the recommendations of the committee were determined before the committee even was formed and called them "insensitive to the real problems of seniors."

TREE TRIMMING operations should be improved or else the village should stop planting new trees, said an officer of the Arlington Beautification Council. Mae Zimmanck, ABC secretary, said the village is not following a proper maintenance schedule. Trimmed trees are safer, she said.

Dist. 59 gives tentative OK to 1976 budget cutbacks

Budget cuts totalling $754,000 for the 1976-77 school year were tentatively approved by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education Monday.

The cutbacks, which will be voted on at the March 15 board meeting, will not directly affect the education programs in the district, but will allow the district to operate under a balanced budget next year if inflation is kept to 5 per cent.

The budget proposal includes cutting about 30 classroom teachers because of current overstaffing and an anticipated 4 per cent decline in enrollment. School officials say the staff cuts will not increase class size. The district figures it can save about $354,500 with the reduction in staff.

CUTBACKS OF approximately 4 per cent in other budget areas include: Administrative supplies, $10,100; instructional supplies $32,850; custodial supplies, $9,163; special education, $39,300; central office clerical help, $9,600; school secretaries, $17,300; custodial maintenance, $25,780; fringe benefits, $14,610; and substitute teachers, $6,162.

The proposal also calls for a 6.8 per cent reduction in expenditures in the central administration for a savings of $71,000 and a 50 per cent cut in miscellaneous administrative expenses for a savings of $4,409.

Other cuts include: Textbooks, $73,597; capital outlay, $40,356; legal advisors fees, $10,000; financial advisors fees, $14,600; summer clerical help, $7,827; student teacher interns, $2,000; and teacher workshops $11,500. $11,500.

Al Stone, assistant superintendent, said, "These cutbacks put the school district in a position to absorb a 5 per

$15,000 damage to apartments by fire

A $15,000 fire damaged two Hoffman Estates apartment units and forced evacuation of a family Monday night. There were no reported injuries.

The blaze broke out in a residence at 1778 Hassell Rd. about 7:43 p.m., said Lt. Donald Selke of the Hoffman Estates Fire Dept. The occupant was not at home.

The flames spread to an adjoining dwelling, forcing a man, woman and two children to flee to safety. Their names, as well as the identity of the occupant of the apartment where the fire started, were unknown late Monday, Selke said.

The cause of the blaze is being investigated.

Patty called 'willing' bank robber

The inside story

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A prosecution witness Monday described Patricia Hearst as a rebellious young woman who was sexually active at age 15, used drugs, became "queen" of the Symbionese Liberation Army and took part willingly in a bank robbery.

Dr. Joel Fort, testifying as a psychiatric witness at her bank robbery trial, was asked by Prosecutor James L. Browning Jr., if, as the defense has claimed, she was "a soldier in an army of generals?"

"No, I think she was a queen," said Fort, a criminologist who has testified as an expert witness in some 270 criminal cases.

Fort said he believed Miss Hearst voluntarily went over to the way of life of her kidnapers within a month after her abduction in February, 1974.

Fort said in the years before the kidnaping Miss Hearst fought with her teachers, disliked her parents and had a reputation for lying to get out of tight spots. He described her as bored and dissatisfied and "missing a sense of meaning in her life."

Fort's testimony was in direct contradiction to three defense psychiatrists who said she was a victim of "traumatic neurosis" and coercion.

He said he found significant her statement about the SLA that "I can't believe that I liked them."

Fort said he did not think she was suffering from traumatic neuroses the day of the bank robbery. He said someone under such pressure would not have been able to carry out robbery functions.

"She did not participate in the bank robbery out of fear of her life," he said in giving his professional opinion.

"She did it voluntarily as a member of the SLA."

Miss Hearst was kidnaped on Feb. 4, 1974. He said he believed she had been converted to their philosophy by March 1. The bank robbery occurred April 15.

Fort gave this assessment of Miss Hearst before the kidnaping:

"She was extremely independent,

Schools get repaid in price fixing suit

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and High School Dist. 214 will be among 300 Illinois schools and political subdivisions to receive a total of $182,121 as their final repayment in a price fixing suit against six manufacturers of gypsum wallboard and related products. Dist. 59 will receive $1,357 and Dist. 214 will receive $1,333 as their shares of overpayment refunds. Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott, in announcing the repayments Monday, said the state will receive the largest single share — $60,910. The money is from an antitrust suit filed against United States Gypsum, National Gypsum, Kaiser, Flinkote, Celetex, and Georgia Pacific charging the companies with price fixing. With the new payments, Illinois recipients will have received $300,000 in overpayment refunds.

Mishap fatal for Skokie man

A Skokie man, 36, was killed Monday when he was run over by an auto on Milwaukee Avenue, southeast of Glenview Road in Northfield Township. Dead was Leif Dalfoss, 5033 Jarlath St. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, said Trooper Robert Woodard of the Illinois State Police. Woodard said details were uncertain but the mishap reportedly occurred after Dalfoss and the other motorist, Bruce Fultz, 41, of 737 Ottowa Ave., Park Ridge, pulled their autos off the roadway and had an argument. Fultz then tried to drive away, but Dalfoss stepped in front of his auto to block his path, Woodard said. Woodard said Fultz told him he drove off mistakenly thinking Dalfoss had stepped from in front of his car. The matter was still under investigation late Monday night, police said.

Theater faces contempt charge

The 53 Outdoor Theater in Palatine Township faces a contempt of court charge alleging the drive-in has failed to obey a court order barring it from showing sexually explicit movies. The Cook County State's Attorney's office has charged the theater owners, Kohlberg Theaters Inc., have continued showing sexually explicit movies in violation of an injunction issued last fall. The court had issued the injunction because the movies are visible from nearby private residences and from traffic along Rand and Hicks roads.The contempt charge, to be heard in Circuit Court April 7, seeks a $65,000 fine and prison terms for owners Jeffery and Stanford Kohlberg.

Des Plaines' Baldaccini quits

Controversial Des Plaines Building Comr. William Baldaccini has resigned. Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said Monday that Baldaccini offered no reason for his resignation, but said attacks on Baldaccini's performance by aldermen and other city officials led to his resignation. Baldaccini, 45, has been attacked this year by city aldermen for issuing occupancy permits for a building found in violation of fire and safety codes. Last week he was criticized for failures by his staff to find building code violations at a city condominium complex. Several aldermen criticized him last year for failing to adequately inspect the electrical system at Holy Family Hospital.

Encephalitis

Epidemic fear called pointless

A Chicago bird expert has criticized the Illinois Dept. of Public Health for creating "a condition of hysteria" over the possible return of St. Louis equine encephalitis that killed 10 persons in the Chicago metropolitan area last fall.

Dr. W. J. Beecher, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences Museum of Ecology, said in a statement released Monday that the public health service warnings will result in costly overspraying with insecticides that will have a serious effect on wildlife.

The chances of another encephalitis outbreak this summer are small, Beecher said.

"No matter which pesticides are used to control mosquitos, we are once more adding poisons to our environment, the long-range carcinogenic effects of which are unknown," Beecher said.

"I feel that nothing I can say will prevent the spraying. There will be no epidemic, but not because of the spraying. Pesticide manufacturers will be very happy and county governments will be very unhappy, along with millions of wild things, from mayflies to pond frogs and fish."

LAST SUMMER was unusual, Beecher said, because temporary ponds did not dry up as they normally do in August. The standing water provided a reservoir for encephalitis carrying mosquitos.

Encephalitis is transmitted by Culex pipiens mosquitos which pick up the disease from birds. In humans, the disease attacks the nervous system and can cause brain damage.

Beecher said that mosquito spraying this summer should be concentrated in outlying, less developed suburbs where birds are more numerous and where open cesspools, undrained road ditches and dumps may exist.

PUBLIC HEALTH warnings about encephalitis are "well-intentioned," Beecher said, but they have led to a condition of hysteria, particularly downstate.

Encephalitis is a difficult disease for humans to get, Beecher said. An infected bird has the virus in its blood stream for only 3 to 5 days. During that time, the Culex pipiens mosquito has to bite the bird and then bite a human within its six-week lifetime.

"With all this going against it, you have to wonder how the virus has survived at all," he said.

County aging unit to hold plans meet

The Suburban Cook County Area Agency on Aging will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. March 19 at the Skokie Public Library, 5212 Oakton St., Skokie, on its proposed plans and program funds for 1976-77.

The agency currently helps fund 18 senior citizens programs in suburban Cook County by supplying "seed money" to start the programs. Local funds are needed after three years or less to continue the projects.

Woodard said details were uncertain but the mishap reportedly occurred after Dalfoss and the other motorist, Bruce Fultz, 41, of 737 Ottowa Ave., Park Ridge, pulled their autos off the roadway and had an argument. Fultz then tried to drive away, but Dalfoss stepped in front of his auto to block his path, Woodard said. Woodard said Fultz told him he drove off mistakenly thinking Dalfoss had stepped from in front of his car. The matter was still under investigation late Monday night, police said.

Theater faces contempt charge

The 53 Outdoor Theater in Palatine Township faces a contempt of court charge alleging the drive-in has failed to obey a court order barring it from showing sexually explicit movies. The Cook County State's Attorney's office has charged the theater owners, Kohlberg Theaters Inc., have continued showing sexually explicit movies in violation of an injunction issued last fall. The court had issued the injunction because the movies are visible from nearby private residences and from traffic along Rand and Hicks roads.The contempt charge, to be heard in Circuit Court April 7, seeks a $65,000 fine and prison terms for owners Jeffery and Stanford Kohlberg.

Des Plaines' Baldaccini quits

Controversial Des Plaines Building Comr. William Baldaccini has resigned. Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said Monday that Baldaccini offered no reason for his resignation, but said attacks on Baldaccini's performance by aldermen and other city officials led to his resignation. Baldaccini, 45, has been attacked this year by city aldermen for issuing occupancy permits for a building found in violation of fire and safety codes. Last week he was criticized for failures by his staff to find building code violations at a city condominium complex. Several aldermen criticized him last year for failing to adequately inspect the electrical system at Holy Family Hospital.

Encephalitis

Epidemic fear called pointless

A Chicago bird expert has criticized the Illinois Dept. of Public Health for creating "a condition of hysteria" over the possible return of St. Louis equine encephalitis that killed 10 persons in the Chicago metropolitan area last fall.

Dr. W. J. Beecher, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences Museum of Ecology, said in a statement released Monday that the public health service warnings will result in costly overspraying with insecticides that will have a serious effect on wildlife.

The chances of another encephalitis outbreak this summer are small, Beecher said.

"No matter which pesticides are used to control mosquitos, we are once more adding poisons to our environment, the long-range carcinogenic effects of which are unknown," Beecher said.

"I feel that nothing I can say will prevent the spraying. There will be no epidemic, but not because of the spraying. Pesticide manufacturers will be very happy and county governments will be very unhappy, along with millions of wild things, from mayflies to pond frogs and fish."

LAST SUMMER was unusual, Beecher said, because temporary ponds did not dry up as they normally do in August. The standing water provided a reservoir for encephalitis carrying mosquitos.

Encephalitis is transmitted by Culex pipiens mosquitos which pick up the disease from birds. In humans, the disease attacks the nervous system and can cause brain damage.

Beecher said that mosquito spraying this summer should be concentrated in outlying, less developed suburbs where birds are more numerous and where open cesspools, undrained road ditches and dumps may exist.

PUBLIC HEALTH warnings about encephalitis are "well-intentioned," Beecher said, but they have led to a condition of hysteria, particularly downstate.

Encephalitis is a difficult disease for humans to get, Beecher said. An infected bird has the virus in its blood stream for only 3 to 5 days. During that time, the Culex pipiens mosquito has to bite the bird and then bite a human within its six-week lifetime.

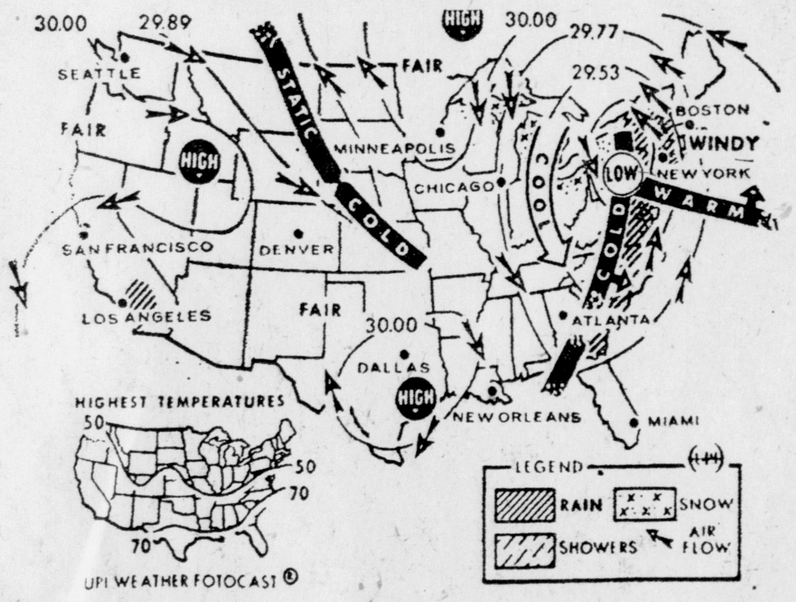

"With all this going against it, you have to wonder how the virus has survived at all," he said.

County aging unit to hold plans meet

The Suburban Cook County Area Agency on Aging will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. March 19 at the Skokie Public Library, 5212 Oakton St., Skokie, on its proposed plans and program funds for 1976-77.

The agency currently helps fund 18 senior citizens programs in suburban Cook County by supplying "seed money" to start the programs. Local funds are needed after three years or less to continue the projects.

Ford predicts another victory in Florida primary

PRESIDENT FORD

MIAMI (UPI) — Ronald Reagan attacked the Ford administration's economic policies Monday as he and a field of Democratic candidates crisscrossed Florida on the final full day of campaigning for Tuesday's presidential primary.

The Democratic contest was seen as a three-way battle among Gov. George Wallace, Jimmy Carter, and Sen. Henry M. Jackson. Wallace was given the edge, but his opponents said he wouldn't roll up the 41.6 per cent margin he received in 1972.

The only active candidate not participating in the airport-hopping was President Ford, who spent the day at the White House, predicting victory as he made morale-boosting telephone calls to his Florida campaign workers.

"It's going to be a close ballgame, but I think we're going to win," Ford told one campaign worker on the telephone. "Don't quit in the last quarter. We're in there to win and we're going to win."

While Ford predicted he will win the primary, Reagan said a loss wouldn't seriously cripple his campaign, although he expected a close race.

Carter backed off last week's prediction that he would win the Democratic primary, Wallace called for a naval base at Key West, Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp attacked oil meetings at Panama City, Fla., and Jackson campaigned in the Miami area.

Election officials predicted more than half the state's 3.4 million registered voters would cast ballots. The National Weather Service forecast scattered showers over the state.

"I'm praying that it will rain snowballs," said L. E. Thomas, Reagan's Florida campaign manager. Reagan supporters said there was still a large undecided vote and felt a small turnout would help the former California governor's chances.

In the last few days Reagan has been battling headlines in the Florida newspapers proclaiming signs of an economic upturn — the kind of recovery the Ford campaign says is the main reason he should be elected to a full term as president.

Reagan said in Miami that Ford has buckled under pressure from a Democratic Congress and adopted stopgap economic pressures which could lead to another recession after the 1976 election.

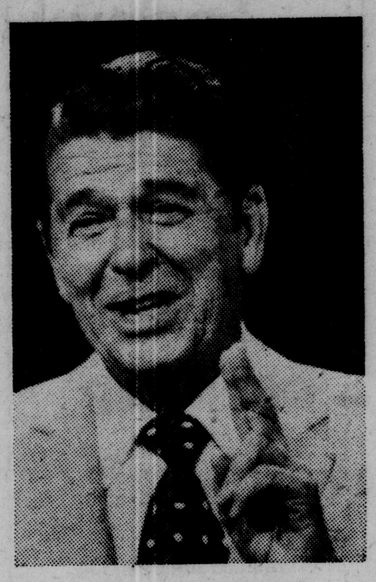

Reagan said under intense questioning from reporters in St. Petersburg that if it were necessary, he would use armed force to protect the Panama Canal Zone.

"The Canal Zone is soverign U.S. territory and obviously I believe we should protect that territory," Reagan said. "Now if anyone is taking that as meaning I am in favor of Vietnams all over the world, I'm afraid there isn't anything I can do about it. The first function of the United States is the defense of the United States."

Carter made stops in Miami, West Palm Beach, Jacksonville and Pensacola before flying to North Carolina, which holds its primary in two weeks.

He said he would come in ahead of Jackson, and that he would cut down Wallace's 1972 percentage.

Wallace told a crowd of about 1,500 at Key West that if he is elected he would keep a naval base there "in sight of Fidel Castro's Cuba."

strong willed, rebellious, well educated, intelligent but not particularly intellectually inclined."

He said there had been conflict at schools, particularly with nuns. He said she told him she had her first sex activity at the age of 15 and that she had very independent views of sexuality and rules in general.

Fort said he had examined the report of defense psychiatrists which included an interview with Mrs. Mimi Swanton, a friend of Miss Hearst and her former fiance, Steven Weed.

He said the report quoted Mrs. Swanton as saying of the defendant that she would "lie if necessary to get herself out of anything."

Mrs. Swanton gave an example of an occasion when Miss Hearst went to a teacher to beg off taking an examination. She said Miss Hearst told the teacher that her mother had cancer and wisecracked, "Nobody would check out anything like that."

Fort said the defendant had expressed a growing dissatisfaction with Weed and was having great doubts about marrying him.

"She found a number of things about him distasteful — for one his attraction to material things, furniture, antiques.

"Then she resented his attitude toward her as a woman. She was expected to cook and clean up for him and to be ready whenever he wanted sex but not when she felt like it. At times she also found him boring."

Fort said he believed she began to feel an attraction to the SLA within two weeks after her kidnaping and these intensified as she was given more freedom outside the closet.

On the witness stand, the defendant had told of being sexually assaulted in the closet by SLA members Willie Wolfe and Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze.

Fort said that during his interviews with Miss Hearst in jail he had asked her about her sexual experiences with the group.

"She indicated that at some point it was brought up — she did not say by whom — whether or not she would like to have intercourse with Willie Wolfe," he said.

"She described agreeing, among other reasons because it might save her life."

Fort said she had indicated it occurred on "a couple of occasions" before the bank robbery.

"She did not indicate he forced himself on her or that there was any rape," he said.

She also had a similar experience with DeFreeze which Fort described as "intercourse without affection." He said she told him she did not have sexual relations with any of the females in the group.

Fort was permitted to give his opinions on whether the heiress took part in the bank robbery willingly or whether she was coerced over the heated objection of defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey.

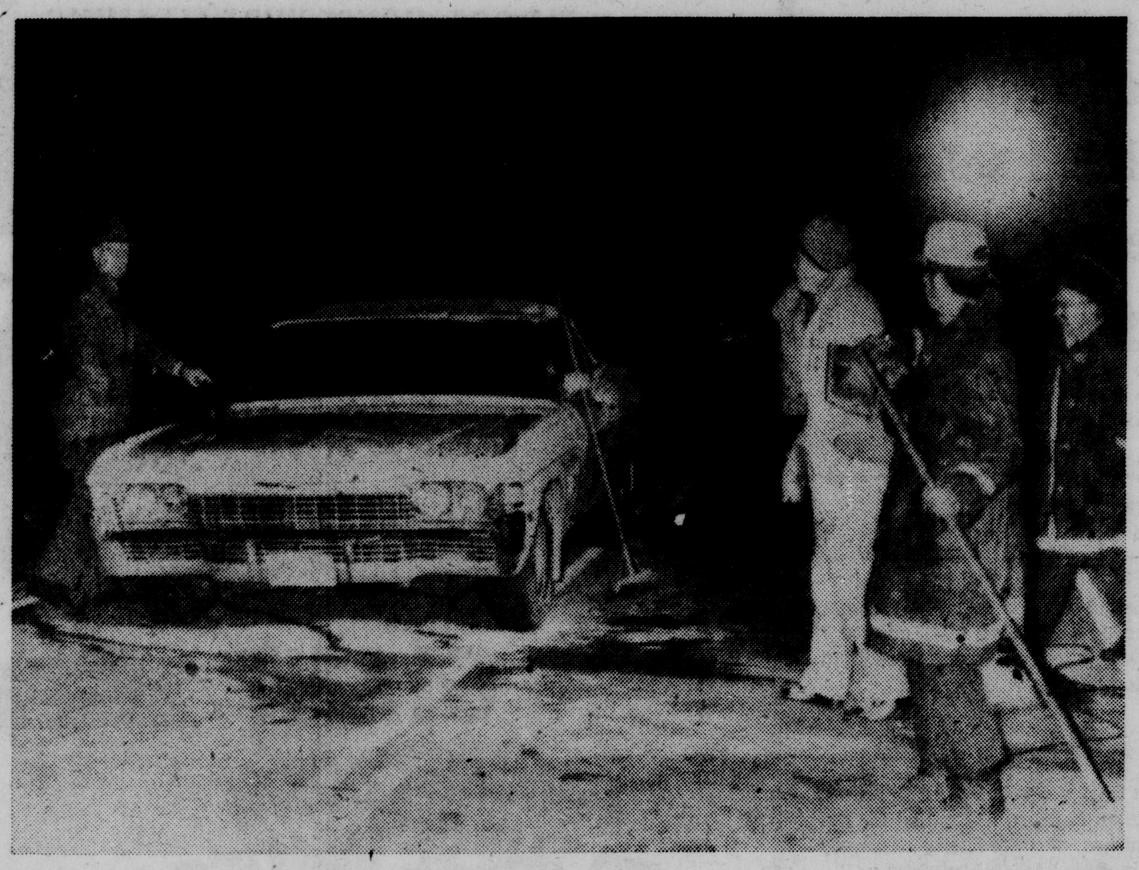

U.S. Judge Oliver J. Carter overruled the objection.

Carter said the defense had been permitted to call three psychiatrists who had testified in effect that she was coerced and that it would be "rank favoritism" to deny the prosecution an opportunity to give its version of her motivation.

The judge took pains, however, to instruct the jury on the matter.

"It is up to you to determine whether the defendant was coerced," he told the seven woman, five man jury.

Fort finished his direct testimony late Monday and was scheduled to take the stand again Tuesday under cross-examination by chief defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey, which is expected to be one of the stormiest sessions of the trial, now in its seventh week.

AN EMERGENCY CREW stands at scene in Celina, Ohio, early Monday, where eight teenagers, en route to a dance, were killed when they were struck by a car as they stood in the middle of a county road. About 50 teens were riding in a caravan of nine cars, when the lead car stopped. The victims got out of the cars they were riding in to see what was happening and were struck.

Congregation can't drink poison: court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday rejected claims by a rural Tennessee church that the First Amendment allows the congregation to drink poison and handle dangerous sakes to test the good will of God.

The justices unanimously turned down an appeal by the Holiness Church of God in Jesus Name. The church was contesting a Tennessee Supreme Court decision which barred the poison practices after two members of the congregation drank strychnine and died.

The church pastor, Liston Pack, and a member of the congregation, Alfred Ball, were fined and ordered jailed for violating court orders and permitting the poison-drinking and snake-handling.

Tennessee's highest court affirmed the sentences and said the state's need to protect the health of its citizens outweighed the rights of church members to worship in a dangerous fashion.

Pack was not available for comment on the ruling, but his wife said, "We'll continue to handle snakes according to our faith."

Guerrillas fire on Israeli patrol

Guerrillas hiding inside Syrian territory fired a bazooka barrage at an Israeli patrol on the Golan Heights in the first border clash with Syria in more than three months, the military command said Monday. The guerrillas fired at the patrol Sunday night from a group of ruined buildings in the Tel El-Sak area, 200 yards inside Syrian territory. Israeli troops responded with light arms fire, military sources said. There were no Israeli casualties.

In Beirut, meantime, a military garrison mutinied and said it was going over to the rebel "Lebanese Arab Army." The cabinet met in emergency session to deal with the widening rift between Moslem and Christian troops. "New winds of revolution are blowing over Lebanon," the leader of Lebanon's Socialist Party, Kamal Jumblatt said.

British pound plummets to all-time low

The British pound, once the world's most mightiest currency, plummeted to all-time lows Monday, hitting $1.92 before the Bank of England came to its rescue. Dealers who saw sterling slip below the $2 mark for the first time last week had expected new losses but not of such magnitude. Some speculated the currency would be worth only $1.80 by Friday.

The rates were good news for tourists, who will find their dollars, marks and francs buying more pounds. But it was bad news for British consumers of imported goods. They'll have to pay more.

Armored car driver surrenders in London

A 25-year-old Connecticut armored car driver broke down and confessed on arrival at London's Heathrow airport Monday that he had nearly $300,000 in stolen banknotes in his suitcase. He said his job guarding money had become just too much of a temptation. Noel Theodore Richard arrived on a flight from New York with a one-way ticket and a brown carryall. When London immigration officials asked whether he would be able to afford the flight home and if he had enough money to stay in London, Richard broke down and revealed $287,580 stuffed into his bag.

Patman praised by colleagues

The late Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., was praised by his colleagues in the House Monday for his "nerves of steel" in fighting for the little man through nearly a half-century in Congress. The 82-year-old Patman, dean of the House with his 47 years of service, died Sunday at the suburban Bethesda Naval Hospital of pneumonia. The House canceled all scheduled business Monday out of respect to Patman and will not meet Wednesday so that members can attend funeral services in Texarkana, Tex.

Judge mulls suit to ban Concorde

A federal judge in Washington Monday took under advisement a suit to ban landings of the supersonic Concorde at Kennedy and Dulles international airports until the government sets noise level standards. Expressing concern over whether his court has jurisdiction, Judge Barrington Parker said he will decide this week whether to issue an injunction. The suit was filed by Fairfax and Loudoun counties, both adjacent to Dulles in Northern Virginia. They were joined later by Nassau County, adjacent to the JFK airport in New York City.

FBI sought to curb 'black messiah'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI secretly sought to prevent the emergence of a "black messiah" — such as Dr. Martin Luther King — and for several decades operated far beyond intelligence-gathering authority, according to documents released Monday.

The documents released by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence said the FBI operated "to expose, disrupt, misdirect, discredit and otherwise neutralize" extreme leftists, the Ku Klux Klan and others.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover over the years either circumvented orders by Justice Department officials to curb these covert political activities or kept the department ill informed of what he was doing, the documents said.

The documents showed President Lyndon B. Johnson used the FBI to check up on the staff of his 1964 Republican presidential challenger Sen. Barry Goldwater, and to report on likely demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City in 1964.

The documents gave new details of FBI infiltration of domestic groups not previously disclosed.

They showed the FBI sought to disrupt a wide array of political groupings including the U.S. Communist party, the Socialist Workers party, "New Left" groups like Students for a Democratic Society and black nationalist groups.

The FBI also took an active interest in the Women's Liberation Movement and some of its subgroupings like the Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell (WITCHES), the Red Stockings and the Molly MacGuires.

One memo sent by Hoover to the FBI in the late 1960s explicitly stated the FBI's Coordinated Counter-intelligence Program was aimed at preventing a coalition of black nationalist groups.

It added another COINTELPRO goal was: "To prevent the rise of a 'Messiah' who could unify, and electrify, the militant black nationalist movement.

"(name deleted) might have been such a 'messiah'; he is the martyr of the movement today," said the memo, apparently alluding to King who was assassinated in April 1968.

The documents showed:

• Hoover ignored a July, 1943 order by Attorney General Francis Biddle and continued to compile a list of aliens and citizens who might endanger the country in time of war.

• In 1952, the FBI won Justice Department permission to maintain its own plan for arresting subversives in wartime because Congress's Internal Security act of 1950 was too liberal.

• In 1960, the FBI did not tell the Justice Department it was compiling a special list of educators, labor leaders, writers, entertainers, lawyers, doctors and others with alleged "subversive associations and ideology" who might be dangerous in time of national emergency.

Judge mulls suit to ban Concorde

A federal judge in Washington Monday took under advisement a suit to ban landings of the supersonic Concorde at Kennedy and Dulles international airports until the government sets noise level standards. Expressing concern over whether his court has jurisdiction, Judge Barrington Parker said he will decide this week whether to issue an injunction. The suit was filed by Fairfax and Loudoun counties, both adjacent to Dulles in Northern Virginia. They were joined later by Nassau County, adjacent to the JFK airport in New York City.

AN EMERGENCY CREW stands at scene in Celina, Ohio, early Monday, where eight teenagers, en route to a dance, were killed when they were struck by a car as they stood in the middle of a county road. About 50 teens were riding in a caravan of nine cars, when the lead car stopped. The victims got out of the cars they were riding in to see what was happening and were struck.

Congregation can't drink poison: court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday rejected claims by a rural Tennessee church that the First Amendment allows the congregation to drink poison and handle dangerous sakes to test the good will of God.

The justices unanimously turned down an appeal by the Holiness Church of God in Jesus Name. The church was contesting a Tennessee Supreme Court decision which barred the poison practices after two members of the congregation drank strychnine and died.

The church pastor, Liston Pack, and a member of the congregation, Alfred Ball, were fined and ordered jailed for violating court orders and permitting the poison-drinking and snake-handling.

Tennessee's highest court affirmed the sentences and said the state's need to protect the health of its citizens outweighed the rights of church members to worship in a dangerous fashion.

Pack was not available for comment on the ruling, but his wife said, "We'll continue to handle snakes according to our faith."

FBI sought to curb 'black messiah'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI secretly sought to prevent the emergence of a "black messiah" — such as Dr. Martin Luther King — and for several decades operated far beyond intelligence-gathering authority, according to documents released Monday.

The documents released by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence said the FBI operated "to expose, disrupt, misdirect, discredit and otherwise neutralize" extreme leftists, the Ku Klux Klan and others.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover over the years either circumvented orders by Justice Department officials to curb these covert political activities or kept the department ill informed of what he was doing, the documents said.

The documents showed President Lyndon B. Johnson used the FBI to check up on the staff of his 1964 Republican presidential challenger Sen. Barry Goldwater, and to report on likely demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City in 1964.

The documents gave new details of FBI infiltration of domestic groups not previously disclosed.

They showed the FBI sought to disrupt a wide array of political groupings including the U.S. Communist party, the Socialist Workers party, "New Left" groups like Students for a Democratic Society and black nationalist groups.

The FBI also took an active interest in the Women's Liberation Movement and some of its subgroupings like the Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell (WITCHES), the Red Stockings and the Molly MacGuires.

One memo sent by Hoover to the FBI in the late 1960s explicitly stated the FBI's Coordinated Counterintelligence Program was aimed at preventing a coalition of black nationalist groups.

It added another COINTELPRO goal was: "To prevent the rise of a 'Messiah' who could unify, and electrify, the militant black nationalist movement.

"(name deleted) might have been such a 'messiah'; he is the martyr of the movement today," said the memo, apparently alluding to King who was assassinated in April 1968.

The documents showed:

• Hoover ignored a July, 1943 order by Attorney General Francis Biddle and continued to compile a list of aliens and citizens who might endanger the country in time of war.

• In 1952, the FBI won Justice Department permission to maintain its own plan for arresting subversives in wartime because Congress's Internal Security act of 1950 was too liberal.

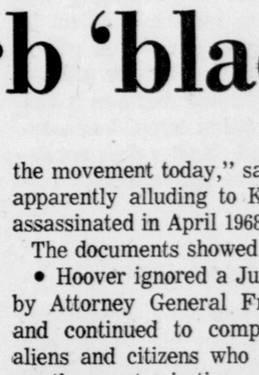

• In 1960, the FBI did not tell the Justice Department it was compiling a special list of educators, labor leaders, writers, entertainers, lawyers, doctors and others with alleged "subversive associations and ideology" who might be dangerous in time of national emergency.

A home for disabled —over the rainbow?

BECAUSE FACILITIES for the physically handicapped are few, far away and expensive, parents of handicapped children are trying to make long-range local provisions for their children.

"We partly got together through schools like Kirk Center and through a mothers' group for United Cerebral Palsy," Mrs. Morgen said.

"It's unrealistic to think we can keep our children with us forever," she said, noting that after the children leave Kirk Center at age 21 they will still need many kinds of therapy that parents alone cannot provide. She said it would also be unfair to keep a physically handicapped person "isolated in your house. They want to have friends and activities of their own."

"We're not looking for someplace just to put our kids. We want them to have a life and become a protected member of society," Mrs. Morgen said.

MRS. MORGEN said the association would like to include a limited workshop in the planned facility to allow residents to be as productive as they can. But because of the severe nature of the handicap they will be dealing with, Mrs. Morgen said very few of the residents would be able to participate.

The physical disability would be the deciding factor in whether a person would be accepted to live at the residence, Mrs. Morgen said, but residents with diseases such as cerebral palsy might be physically as well as mentally disabled; others might be only physically handicapped due to an injury.

The facility would be a community to foster the physical, emotional, social, cultural and intellectual growth and development of physically handicapped through group activities and individual treatment, Mrs. Morgen said.

"I've already had calls from people who are looking for places to put their physically handicapped children now," Mrs. Morgen said. "Their kids are 22 or 30 years old, and they didn't think about doing anything themselves until it was too late.

"WE WANT someplace for our kids to go that is right here in the Northwest suburbs so that we can see them on weekends," she said. "The only alternative now is to ship them off to another state where you can hardly ever see them."

The kind of constant care these physically handicapped adults need is expensive, Mrs. Morgen said. Help in feeding and dressing as well as speech, physical and occupational therapy involves aides, nurses, therapists and psychologists.

"We're talking about a fantastic amount of money not only to maintain it but just to get it built," Mrs. Morgen said. "Our goal is probably about 12 years away."

But one of the association's first activities, a dinner-dance in October, netted more than $7,000, and the 45-member group is busily planning more events, including a thrift shop which they hope to open in the summer.

"WE'RE LOOKING for people who want to help us," Mrs. Morgen said. "They don't have to have a handicapped child — we have people who are just working for a good cause."

The association meets the third Friday of every month at 8 p.m. at Kirk Center for the handicapped, 520 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

"We don't want the parents to have to pay the total burden, though they would still have to pay a percentage of the cost," Mrs. Morgen said. "If it costs $3,000 to $4,000 today to keep a child in a facility, it will cost $10,000 by the time our kids are 18. Who can afford that?"

'Dirtiest campaign ever'

Sen. Stevenson backs Howlett for governor

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., Monday said the current Democratic gubernatorial campaign is the "dirtiest campaign for state office I have ever seen."

Stevenson's comments on the campaign came as he announced his endorsement of Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett over Gov. Daniel Walker.

The Senator said Howlett has been "vilified," by the charges and accusations raised during the campaign. He said he has known Howlett and Walker for many years and indicated the choice had been made "reluctantly."

WALKER WAS the manager of Stevenson's first campaign for the U.S. Senate in 1970.

Stevenson admitted he has not reviewed all of the charges raised against Howlett, but based his recommendation on a review made by attorney Milton Fischer.

"Everything has been blown out of proportion," Stevenson charged. He added that "neither candidate would permit personal financial interests to impair his impartiality as a public servant."

The senator's comments came during a news conference at Niles West High School in Skokie. He stressed that neither Howlett nor Walker has sought his support. He added that his endorsement of Howlett is not an endorsement of the candidates who have been slated by the regular Democratic organization.

"I am satisfied that he has been honest," Stevenson said after being pressed about potential conflict of interest situations raised against Howlett.

HOWLETT HAS been the focus of controversy since he admitted receiving $225,000 over the past 16 years while serving as a consultant for the Sun Steel Corp. of Chicago Heights. He embroiled himself in another controversy when he disclosed he had paid income tax on a $100,000 loan which he claims was used for campaign expenses.

Walker charged on Sunday that the loan, which was made by the Nationwide Acceptance Corp., may have violated state law, because the company owns stock in a harness racing organization and is barred from providing funds for political candidates.

Stevenson called Walker "brilliant and energetic," but he criticized his management of the state. He also said he would support Walker if he wins the Democratic nomination in the March 16 primary election.

Stevenson said he expects ex-Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter to win the state Presidential preference primary next week.

He was critical of most of the present Democratic candidates and predicted the party's national convention will be deadlocked.

There are 150 delegate candidates running in the primary that are pledged to Steveson but the senator still insists he is not a candidate.

President's visit at local school open to public

Supporters of President Ford said the President's appearance Friday at Buffalo Grove High School will be open to the public.

There are no tickets for the event and seating will be on a first come, first served basis. Doors will open at 7 p.m. The high school is at Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

Fire Kissinger: Totten

State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, has called for the firing of Sec. of State Henry Kissinger because of his "defeatist mentality."

Totten, Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan's Illinois campaign manager, made the statement recently at a Republican rally in Lake Forest.

"Mr. Kissinger is advocating the policy of detente and the president is responding to criticism of that policy by announcing to the press he will not use the word 'detente' because it has become a campaign issue. I can assure you Ronald Reagan does not ignore problems, he solves them," Totten said.

'Walker raised taxes'

Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett renewed charges that his Democratic primary opponent, Gov. Daniel Walker, is using misleading television commercials.

Howlett charged the governor signed 16 bills which increased taxing authority of local governments, seven without the need for voter approval, while saying he has not raised taxes.

"While proclaiming he is the first governor in 27 years who hasn't raised taxes, he is spending more of the taxpayers dollars than all our governors combined during the previous 12 years," Howlett charged.

Howlett also charged the governor is withholding material facts regarding the state investigation into Medicaid fraud charges.

Village to weigh water shortage

The imminent water shortage in the Northwest suburbs will be discussed tonight at a special meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

"It is inevitable. At the pace we're going, we're going to deplete our water supply," said Gene Willroth, Arlington Heights public works director. "There are some educated guesses that say the water supply will last only five years; others say it will last 20 years."

"We shouldn't be in any panic situation. We've got storage that can carry us over a four or five day period. This is an area-wide thing. That's where the panic is," Willroth said.

WILLROTH WILL speak tonight on the current water situation after Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson gives a presentation on the water system report compiled by the administration last November.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Tonight is the first time the village board has met to discuss the water system report, which says the only feasible solution to the water problem is to draw water from Lake Michigan.

"Planners can no longer safely assume that the water crisis looms in the distant future." An acute water shortage may become a reality before an alternate source can be developed," the report says.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS is now served by 13 wells drilled to a depth of between 1,350 and 1,800 feet. Pumps in the wells have been lowered to the deepest practical depth, according to the report.

Three possible methods of obtaining Lake Michigan water are mentioned in the report, The village could share in an independent supply taken directly from the lake, or purchase treated lake water from Chicago or from a North Shore suburb.

"Lake Michigan is the one prime source that is available. It's certainly the closest and it also looks to be the most economical," Willroth said.

"It will probably cost at least three times as much as well water," he said. "That cost, of course, will have to be passed on to the consumers."

THE VILLAGE HAS worked unsuccessfully for 19 years to get Lake Michigan water through the Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine Water Commission (DAMP).

Now Arlington Heights has joined seven other suburbs in forming SHARE + 3 in a renewed effort to work out an arrangement with Chicago. It is only four months old and has not formally approached Chicago with a water proposal for the Northwest suburbs.

One of the seven recommendations in the water system report is that state legislators be asked to introduce legislation to create a regional water authority for the purpose of regulating water resources.

Other recommendations in the report are:

- Implement conservation measures, including the strict enforcement of lawn sprinkling regulations.
- Prepare a water rate structure which assures equity of charges and provides for extra charges for excess use.
- Instruct the village attorney to file an injunction to prohibit sales of water by the City of Chicago to any new customers beyond their city limits until that customer has received an allocation of Lake Michigan water by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation or the regional water authority when formed.
- Continue participation in SHARE + 3 for the purpose of determining the best contract that can be obtained from Chicago.
- Pursue the aims of DAMP, with a view toward obtaining the largest feasible groups of municipalities to participate in the joint use of Lake Michigan water.
- Request the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to develop strict conservation measures on a standby basis for implementation in an emergency prior to the formation of a regional water authority.

Village finance Director Kenneth Bonder agrees the village's water rate structure should be changed. He also said he will recommend a rate increase of about 20 per cent later this year because water system expenditures are higher than water revenues.

The village is also considering reversing the present rate structure under which the water rate drops from 63 cents per 1,000 gallons to 58 cents after the first 50,000 gallons, Bonder said.

Stop planting trees, start pruning them, official says

The village should stop planting trees until it starts properly caring for the 30,000 it already has, said a member of the Arlington Beautification Council.

Mae Zimmanck, beautification council secretary, said, "We should be trimming 6,000 trees a year and we're trimming less than 1,000 . . . I suggest we don't plant anymore if we can't take care of the ones we have."

Mrs. Zimmanck said Des Plaines is spending about $15 to trim a tree while it costs Arlington Heights $40 per tree.

GENE WILLROTH, director of public works, said the cost is greater to Arlington Heights because the trees are not pruned as often. He said 98 per cent of the village trees were trimmed following the blizzard of 1967, but less than half have been trimmed since then.

"Planting trees and then not caring for them is like hiring a fireman and then not spending the money to get him a helmet or a truck to fight fires," Mrs. Zimmanck said.

She said regular trimming is necessary for safety and disease control as well as for esthetics. She said properly-maintained trees are stronger, more disease-resistant and less likely to be damaged in storms.

Trees with a diameter of more than 12 inches are maintained by private contractors, and Mrs. Zimmanck said 2,200 of them should be pruned annually, based on a five-year cycle.

SHE SAID THE number trimmed last year was only 247, and between 500 and 600 trees were trimmed the past two years.

Trees smaller than that are cared for by village personnel. She said the five-year cycle calls for 4,500 trees to be trimmed annually, but the number trimmed last year was less than half that.

Willroth's request for $125,000 for tree trimming in the proposed 1976-77 budget was cut back to $60,000.

He said while the village is now planting more green ash trees, "We're trying not to get married to one tree like we have with the elm in the past."

With a single species of tree, care and maintenance expenses can skyrocket if the tree is struck by a disease, such as the Dutch elm disease.

Mrs. Zimmanck said, "Our trees are valuable assets and we can no longer afford to ignore them. In the past three yeas we have spent $44,867 for the planting of new trees. In all good conscience, I cannot recommend more extensive plantings unless we similarly provide the means to follow through with adequate high standards to insure their fullest potential."

Residents fight Laseke; hassle enters 5th week

by JOE SWICKARD

"It's getting ridiculous," said Mary Lantz.

Mrs. Lantz, 1805 N. Drury Ln., Arlington Heights, noted the conflict with the Laseke Disposal Co. has been going on "five weeks too long" but there's still at least one more installment to come.

Soon after the Lantz' moved to Arlington Heights from Buffalo Grove at the end of January, they received a two-month bill from Laseke. Thinking it odd they would be billed for two months service they hadn't received, they called the disposal company to find out what happened.

THE ANSWER didn't please the Lantz'. They were told, Mrs. Lantz said, to pay the bill as submitted or the trash doesn't get hauled.

And she said they didn't and it wasn't.

To get rid of the accumulation, the Lantz' took the trash back to Buffalo Grove and had it taken from their old house and paid for the service there.

They paid a visit to the village health department, which oversees the Laseke trash monopoly, and service started March 3.

But then an adjusted bill came from Laseke for service in February — a service the Lantz' said they did not get because they watched for the garbage man faithfully and he never came in February.

WHEN DISPUTES crop up between customers and Laseke, the village sponsors arbitration to settle the question. William Mack, village sanitarian, called in Mrs. Lantz and Al Bruder, Laseke's general manager, Monday morning to set things straight.

Bruder said the garbage was picked up and he had truck records to back his assertion. Mrs. Lantz said it wasn't because she had watched and her neighbors could vouch for her.

Bruder offered to bring in the driver, truck and all, plus the office workers to find out who said what to whom and to learn what, if anything, was picked up where.

Mack asked Bruder to concede the point and further amend the bill. Bruder refused, saying he would have to talk to his employes first.

A TIME-OUT was called until Wednesday morning to allow Bruder to check things on his side while Mrs. Lantz shook her head and said, "I don't understand this."

She then looked at the disputed bill, amounting to $5.84, and said, "It's getting to the point where you want to laugh."

Then she noticed the due date had passed. Late charges of 29 cents were due.

And, as the stories with the Paris datelines used to say, negotiations are scheduled to resume tomorrow.

Historic farm, court facilities before parks

Plans for two new developments will be reviewed by the Arlington Heights Park District Board of Commissioners tonight.

The board will decide whether to begin construction of the proposed post-Civil War era farm as outlined by Preservation Urban Design Inc., Ann Arbor, Mich. The project, at Council Trail and Belmont Avenue, would be a working farm and a "window to the past" for modern suburbanites.

Possible methods of financing the farm will be considered by the park board at the meeting, 7:30 p.m. in the board room at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

Although a museum tax of 5 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation has been levied, Thomas Thornton, park district director, said a loan, secured by the tax levy, could be used to speed development of the project.

TO DATE, MUSEUM tax funds have been spent to plant screening shrubs around the site. A representative of Preservation/Urban Design said the authentic buildings would cost between $217,000 and $276,000 if built this year.

Plans for the addition of eight racquetball and handball courts to the Forest View Tennis Club, prepared by architect Forrest Wendt, also will be reviewed by the board.

The addition, estimated to cost $450,000, would share some of the same facilities as the tennis club, but would not be part of it.

The project is to be financed through a 10-year note carrying about a 7 per cent interest rate and having tax-exempt status.

Thomas Flatland, of Wauterlek and Brown financial consultants, told the park board earlier the contract purchase "is the only viable financing method you have."

cent inflation in our costs and still project a balanced budget. If costs increase beyond this point, there will have to be an increase in the size of classes and some reduction in programs."

In January, the administration had projected a $2.3 million deficit next year in the education fund if no cuts were made and the district was hit by inflation of 8 per cent. School officials also said the district could handle a $500,000 deficit without making budget cuts if inflation was held to 5 per cent.

Board members, after first agreeing to consider a deficit budget, asked the administration to prepare a balanced budget and show its effect on education programs.

Sectional action to open tonight

It's still a little too early to get excited about the IHSA's Class AA basketball tournament series — unless your favorite team is one of the survivors from regional play last Friday.

In that case, now is not too soon to push the panic button.

First-round games in 15 sectional tournaments around the state will be contested tonight, including three big area matchups at Prospect, Barrington and Elgin High Schools.

Niles West (21-4) meets Maine South (19-7) at Prospect beginning at 7:30 p.m. (WWMM-FM, 92.7) in a game that could be the most explosive of tonight's encounters. The teams clashed twice during the regular season and Maine South came away with a pair of two-point victories. Niles West's big men — Bob Zyburst and John Bruner — compare favorably to Maine's frontliners, Russ Schmelzer and Tom Barr. Both teams have excellent shooting guards — Tommy Arns and Marty Fabian for Niles and Rick Smith and Mike Burton for South.

The winner there will face the winner of the Hersey vs. Maine West game, which will be played on Wednesday. Maine South, Niles West, and Maine West were the top three finishers in the Central Suburban South this year.

At Barrington's sectional tourney, MSL champion Buffalo Grove plays Wednesday against North Chicago, but before then the Ramblers of Loyola Acadamy (19-8) meet the Tigers of Crystal Lake (15-11) tonight at 7:30 (WEAW-FM 105).

Loyola, big and quick, may have an advantage over the Crystal Lake team, but the Tigers enjoy tourney experience, having journeyed this far in each of the last three years. Two years ago, the Tigers went all the way to the supers.

Victories for Buffalo Grove and Crystal Lake would set up a rematch of an early-season game in which the Tigers knocked off the Bison.

Conant, the MSL South-division champion, will watch with interest tonight when Weber (21-6) takes on Elgin (22-4) in the first round of the Elgin Sectional starting at 7:30 p.m.

Conant faces DeKalb in the second night's action on Wednesday.

All eyes will be focused on the Weber Red Horde, a team that eliminated one of the Class AA favorites, East Leyden, in last week's regionals. Weber, along with Loyola one of five Catholic League teams still alive, is a team dominated by underclassmen. The Red Horde own a 74-54 victory over Conant in the York Christmas Tourney.

Elgin has had its ups and downs this season, but the Maroons come into the tourney with the kind of quickness and size that should be an equal match for Weber (WJKL-FM, 94.3).

The Class AA sectional champions move on to the Supersectional round next Tuesday at eight sites, including the Chicago Public League finals.

The Prospect Sectional champ meets the Barrington winner at Northwestern University, and the Elgin title winner goes to Aurora East for a matchup with the Hinsdale Central Sectional champion.

(Detailed examination of the games involving area clubs will appear on Wednesday's Herald.)

Fremd, Conant girls meet for Mid-Suburban honors

by PAUL LOGAN

Some of the finest girl basketball players in the state will be showcased tonight at the Fremd High School hosted Mid-Suburban League championships.

The third annual title game will feature two-time MSL champion Fremd (15-0) against South Division champ Conant (14-2). Game time is approximately 8 p.m.

As a warmup to the main event, two outstanding division runnerup teams — Wheeling (13-2) and Forest View (10-4) — will square off at 6:30.

The Fremd Vikings and the Conant Cougars met earlier in the season with the Vikings dominating play. Coach Carol Plodzien's team won with ease, 54-35.

Plodzien said her team's defense was the key to the previous victory. "I'm sure they've (Cougars) improved since then," she said. But so have the Vikings.

Fremd's had a dynamic duo offensively all season in guards Heidi Geisler (5-foot-7) and Connie Bruns (5-4). Geisler, a senior, is the MSL's second leading scorer at 15.8. Right behind is Bruns, a junior, at 14.1.

Now the Vikings are a quadruple threat on offense since "Cannon (Colleen) has come out of her shooting slump and (Peggy) Hamill has improved tremendously," said Plodzien.

Cannon, a 5-4 junior forward who helped lead the team in scoring last year, only had three double figure games in her first 10. Since then, she's regained her deadly eye and turned in her best game of the season last weekend against Waukegan West with 26 points.

Hamill, a 5-10 sophomore center, has shown a lot more scoring consistency of late to go with her rebounding. She scored 12 and 19 in her last two outings.

Donelda Danz, a 5-10 sophomore forward, rounds out Fremd's probable starting lineup.

Conant will enjoy a size advantage with center Bonnie Riechelt (6-1), forwards Linda Webb (5-10) and Kathy Surnicki (5-8) and guards Kathy Evans (5-8) and Vickie Bozin (5-4).

Cougar coach Barb Bostian said her team was bothered by Fremd's full-court press as well as some devastating outside shooting the first time they met. "We have practiced their press," said Bostian. "We practiced it against the varsity boys' team. And we've practiced against different combinations. If they keep their composure, they can handle it."

Two Cougars in particular have been very consistent over the last five games. Webb, presently carrying a 14.9 average, hasn't been under 19 during that span. Surnicki, a freshman, has been above her 10.1 average. Both enjoyed their season high games against Hoffman Estates last week with Webb scoring 24 and Surnicki 21.

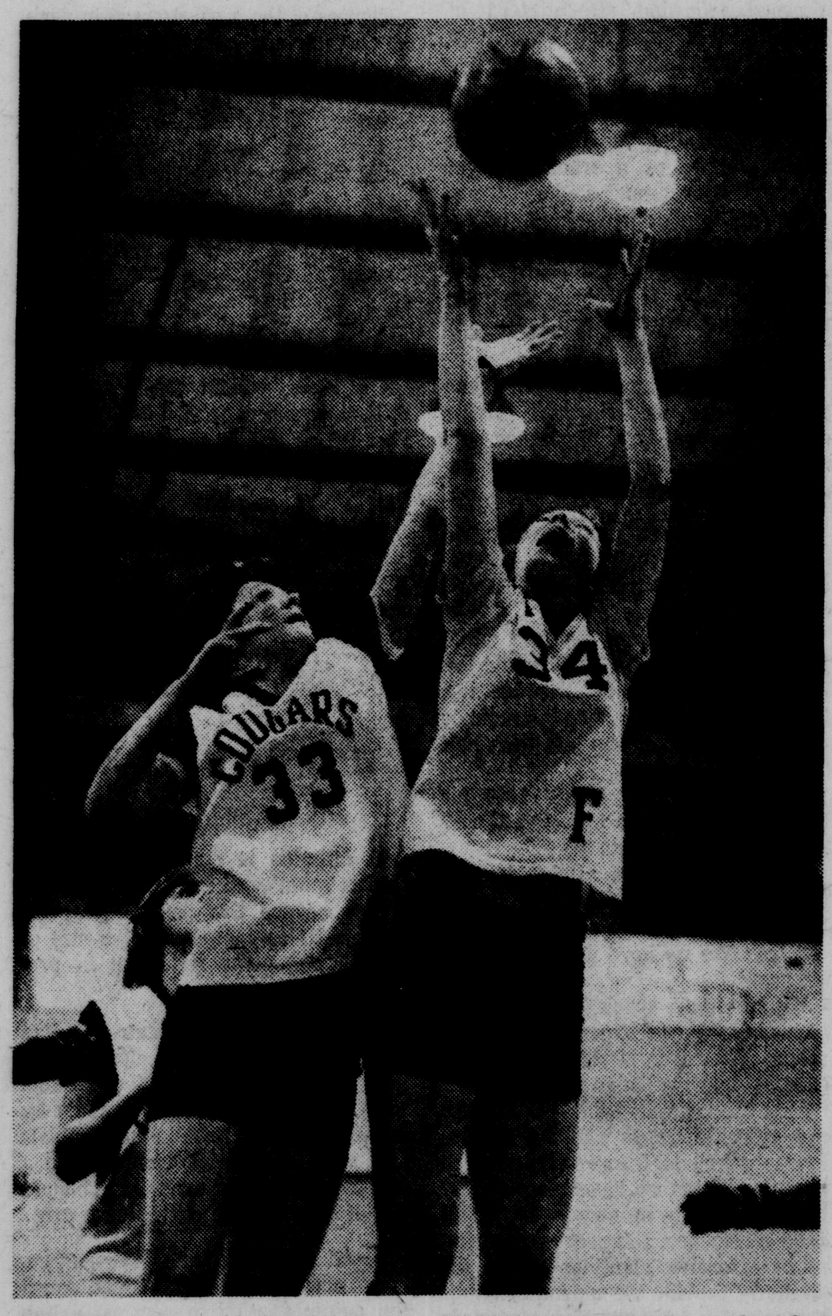

Conant doubled its win total over the past three years this season, bouncing back from a tough 3-8 effort in 1975.

"I do believe in this bunch of kids," said Bostian, whose record in four seasons is 21-15. "They've worked hard.

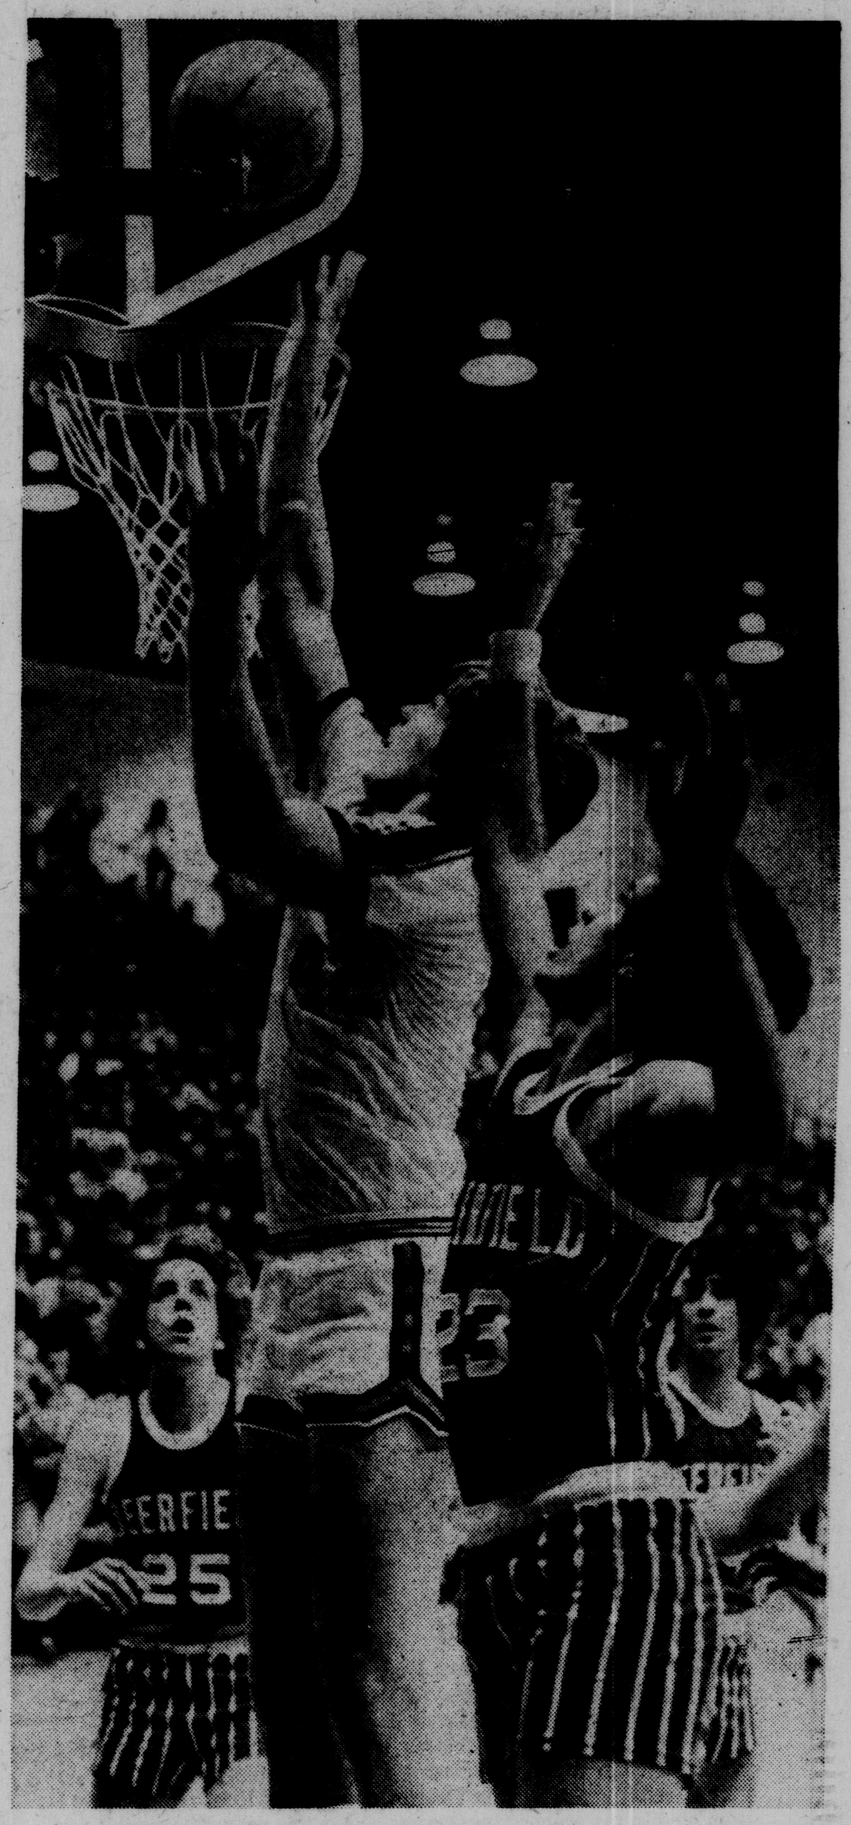

"One thing I'm really happy to see is our team and Fremd's team involved in the playoffs. They're two of the nicest bunch of teams there are."

Fremd will be seeking its 41st straight win without a loss. "The key (to a possible upset) will be how well we play defense on them," said Bostian.

So the stage is set. It's the last big game of the season. These talented teams will have to wait until next year for the state tournament.

REMATCH. Conant's Kathy Surnicki (33) and Fremd's Peggy Hamill battle in the first meeting this season. Both teams play for the Mid-Suburban basketball title tonight at Fremd.

TWO FOR TIM. Tim Stonerook of Buffalo Grove slips in past Deerfield's Don Chester to record a layup during Friday's regional championship contest in the Bison gym. Stonerook finished with 19 points and 12 rebounds to help lead his team to a 67-49 triumph.

St. Viator's Scott Zettek on Prep All-America team

Scott Zettek of St. Viator High School is one of the top 100 high school senior football players in the nation, according to an announcement today from Coach and Athlete Magazine.

Zettek, a 6-foot-4, 230-pound All-State tackle, is one of five Illinois players named to the 1975-76 Prep All-American Football Squad.

Other Illinois preps honored are quarterback Mark Carlson of Deerfield, tight end Mike Holmes of Chicago Leo, tackle Bob Taylor of Pekin, and tackle Dan Westerlind of Rockford East.

More than 40,000 high school coaches and athletic directors, college scouts and members of the local and national sports press participated in the selection of the top players.

Thirty-five states and the District of Columbia are represented on the elite squad. California, with eight, and Texas, with seven, top the selections.

The 'Super Eleven' or All-America first team includes Carlson of Deerfield at quarterback, the only Illinois prep.

PAT SMITH (light uniform) of St. Viator skates for the puck in recent Chicago Metropolitan Hockey League action. Smith had two goals and three assists as St. Viator smashed Lane Tech, 14-4, in the Metro playoffs.

St. Viator, Fremd post wins in Metro playoffs

The St. Viator and Fremd hockey teams are just one victory away from playing for the Chicago Metropolitan League championships.

Coach Brian Morgan's Northwest Division champion St. Viator team exploded for 10 goals in the third period to rout Northeast Division champion Lane Tech Sunday at Glenview, 14-4.

In the consolation matchup, Coach Lane Hart's Fremd team defeated Northeast consolation champ Niles West, 4-1.

Ironically, Lane Tech scored first. Then Kevin Kosowski slapped in two goals to put St. Viator out in front to stay. Kosowski, a left winger, earned the "hat trick" later in the game and accounted for one assist.

"We started playing the hockey we were capable of playing," said Morgan of the third-period barrage. "We were passing it around really well.

"It wasn't the (Lane) goalie's fault," he said of the 20 shots on goal, 10 of which hit the net. "The guys were really passing great."

St. Viator players who had fine offensive games were Captain Bob Bettis with one goal and six assists, Tom McDonald with two goals and four assists, K. C. Gullet with two goals and two assists, Pat Smith with two goals and three assists and Dave Thompson with two goals and four assists.

Goalie Jerry Delgiudice went the first 2½ periods before letting Jeff Strang take over for St. Viator.

Fremd defenseman Jerry Dudziak put his team out in front to stay at 6:41 of the first period on an unassisted goal. Glenn Hoffman knocked in the second in the middle period on another unassisted goal from his right wing position.

After Niles made it 2-1 early in the third period, Ken Wirth scored the first of two goals, assisted by Hoffman and Larry Lightfoot. Wirth was assisted by Bob Muncey and Brian Collins later on to put the game out of reach.

"We've got a lot of work to do between Niles West and the next game," said Hart. "We're not breaking like I would like to have them break. And the checking's not as good as it can be."

Goalie Mike Fitzgibbon turned back 25 shots on goal. Meanwhile, his teammates were peppering the Niles netman with 50 shots.

Fremd will be minus two players for its consolation matchup with New Trier East Wednesday at Northbrook, starting at 7:15 p.m. Both were involved in major penalties, sidelining them for this Metro semifinal game.

In the nightcap, St. Viator will take on Deerfield at 8:45. "It's going to be a tough game on Wednesday," said Morgan. "They say Deerfield's vastly superior to Lane Tech."

The winners of the North championship and consolation games will advance to the Metro title games at Randhurst on Sunday against the South champs.

Hale Erwin wins Citrus Open playoff

Hale Irwin picked up his second winner's check in 15 days Monday when Kermit Zarlty missed a pair of three-foot putts on the final two holes of darkness-delayed, sudden-death playoff in the Citrus Open.

Zarley, with a chance to end the tournament on the fifth playoff hole, gave Irwin "a psychological boost" with his first miss, then handed Irwin $40,000 with the second.

"Kermit's putter carried him so far, then let him down," said Irwin, who also won the Los Angeles Open two weeks ago and now leads this year's money list with nearly $114,000.

"When he missed that putt on the fifth playoff hole, I couldn't believe it. It was like the sun not coming up. I thought I was out of it, but that miss put the dagger at his throat."

Zarley, who got a $22,800 consolation prize, agreed.

"I had Hale in a box and should have won the tournament then," said Zarley. "Like Hale said, I got into the playoff with my putter and then lost with it."

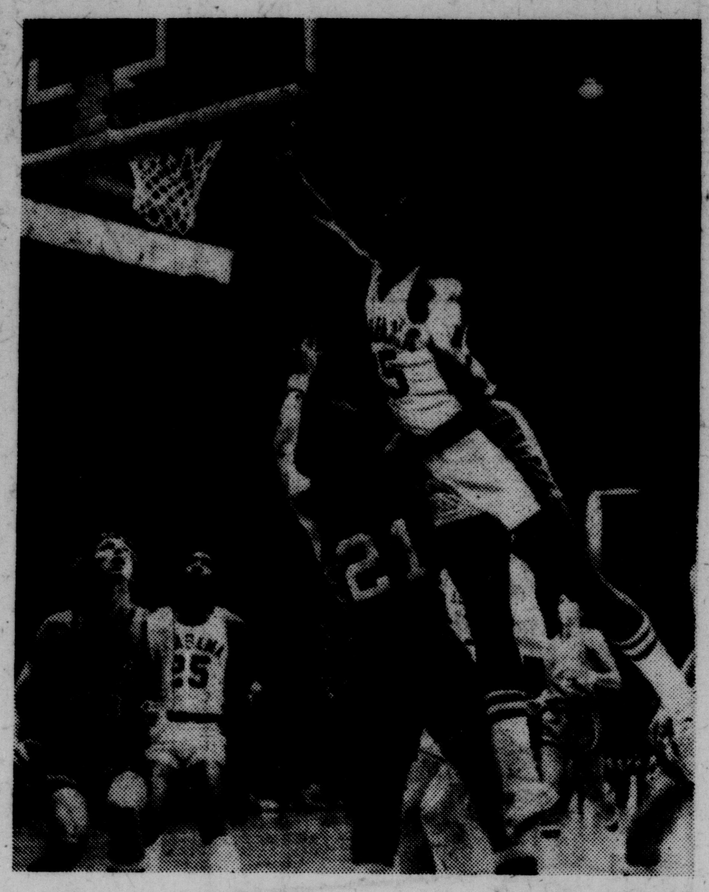

Groom, 50 horses die in track fire

A racetrack groom and 50 horses were killed Monday as flames leaping as high as 75 to 100 feet in the air destroyed a barn at the Louisville Downs harness racetrack.

Firemen from five volunteer fire departments battled the blaze, which apparently broke out shortly before 3 a.m., and brought it under control within about 20 minutes.

There were no immediate officials estimates placed on the extent of the damage, but a track announcer said the losses were probably between $100,000 and $200,000.

Only six horses were able to escape to safety, according to track officials.

NIT completes field for 39th cage meet

Twentieth-ranked North Carolina State, which refused a bid last year, was one of six teams named to complete the field for the 39th annual National Invitation Tournament Monday but several of the nation's more glamorous independents, including No. 12 Florida State, were bypassed by the selection committee.

San Francisco and Kansas State, two teams which narrowly missed winning their respective conferences, also received bids along with Holy Cross, St. Peter's (NJ) and the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The last three were surprise choices as they got the nod over such formidable independents as Florida State (20-6) South Carolina (18-9), Pan American (20-5), North Texas State (22-4) and Oral Roberts (19-6).

There were several top-ranking independents who were surprisingly bypassed by the NIT committee. Among them were 12th-ranked Florida State (20-6), Oral Roberts (19-6), South Carolina (18-9), Pan American (20-5) and North Texas State (22-4).

Previously named to compete in the 12-team tournament were Louisville, Kentucky, North Carolina A&T, Niagara, Providenct and Oregon. Louisville, North Carolina State, Oregon and Kansas State were given first round byes.

The tournament will begin Saturday afternoon, March 13, at 1 o'clock with Kentucky meeting Niagara and Providence taking on North Carolina A&T. Another opening round doubleheader is scheduled for Saturday night, beginning at 7 p.m., with UNC-Charlotte facing San Francisco and St. Peter's opposing Holy Cross.

The winner of the UNC-Charlotte-San Francisco game will meet Oregon and the winner of the St. Peter's-Holy Cross encounter will face North Carolina State in the quarterfinals Monday night, March 15. Tuesday night's quarterfinals will pit the winner of the Niagara-Kentucky game against Kansas State and the winner of the Providence-North Carolina A&T contest opposite Louisville.

Semifinals are scheduled for Thursday night, March 18, with the final set for Sunday afternoon, March 21.

North Carolina State, which rejected a bid to appear in the NIT last year after losing in the Atlantic Cost Conference tournament, readily accepted this time after being upset in the first round of the ACC tourney by Virginia, the eventual winner. The Wolfpack were ranked among the top 10 early in the season and finished with a 19-8 record.

Seven hurt in Olympic site mishap

At least seven workers were injured Monday night when a slab of concrete apparently broke loose from the base of the tower designed to support the roof of the main stadium on the site for the 1976 Summer Olympics.

"We believe at least seven workers were injured. We are looking to determine if there were other workers at the base of the stadium at the time of the accident," a police spokesman said.

It was the second major accident at the site for the 1976 Summer Games in recent months. Last fall a worker was killed when a support beam for the main stadium fell on him.

Hale Erwin wins Citrus Open playoff

Hale Irwin picked up his second winner's check in 15 days Monday when Kermit Zarlty missed a pair of three-foot putts on the final two holes of darkness-delayed, sudden-death playoff in the Citrus Open.

Zarley, with a chance to end the tournament on the fifth playoff hole, gave Irwin "a psychological boost" with his first miss, then handed Irwin $40,000 with the second.

"Kermit's putter carried him so far, then let him down," said Irwin, who also won the Los Angeles Open two weeks ago and now leads this year's money list with nearly $114,000.

"When he missed that putt on the fifth playoff hole, I couldn't believe it. It was like the sun not coming up. I thought I was out of it, but that miss put the dagger at his throat."

Zarley, who got a $22,800 consolation prize, agreed.

"I had Hale in a box and should have won the tournament then," said Zarley. "Like Hale said, I got into the playoff with my putter and then lost with it."

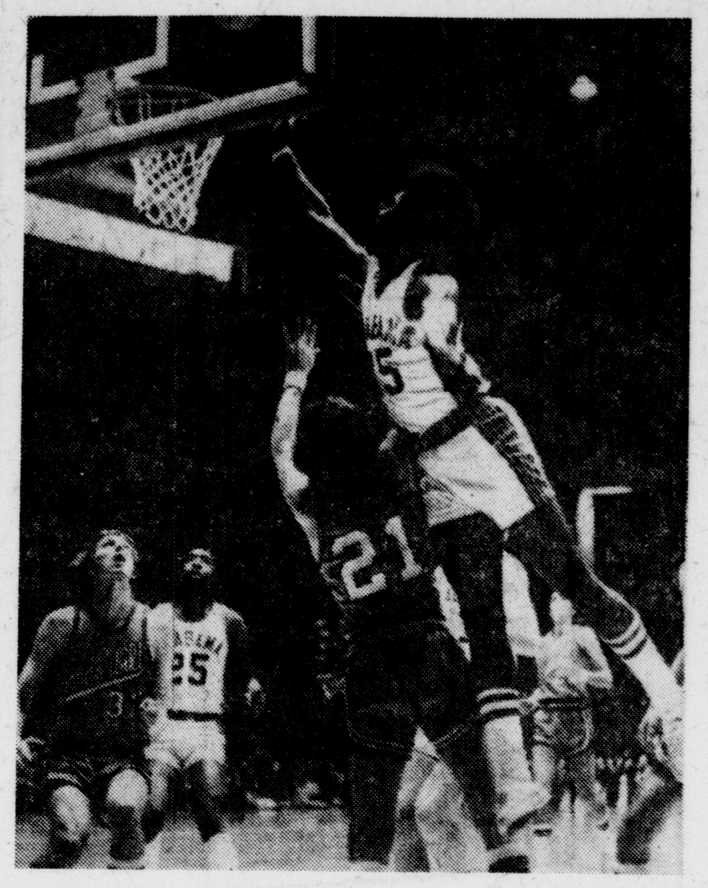

Groom, 50 horses die in track fire

A racetrack groom and 50 horses were killed Monday as flames leaping as high as 75 to 100 feet in the air destroyed a barn at the Louisville Downs harness racetrack.

Firemen from five volunteer fire departments battled the blaze, which apparently broke out shortly before 3 a.m., and brought it under control within about 20 minutes.

There were no immediate officials estimates placed on the extent of the damage, but a track announcer said the losses were probably between $100,000 and $200,000.

Only six horses were able to escape to safety, according to track officials.

NIT completes field for 39th cage meet

Twentieth-ranked North Carolina State, which refused a bid last year, was one of six teams named to complete the field for the 39th annual National Invitation Tournament Monday but several of the nation's more glamorous independents, including No. 12 Florida State, were bypassed by the selection committee.

San Francisco and Kansas State, two teams which narrowly missed winning their respective conferences, also received bids along with Holy Cross, St. Peter's (NJ) and the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The last three were surprise choices as they got the nod over such formidable independents as Florida State (20-6) South Carolina (18-9), Pan American (20-5), North Texas State (22-4) and Oral Roberts (19-6).

There were several top-ranking independents who were surprisingly bypassed by the NIT committee. Among them were 12th-ranked Florida State (20-6), Oral Roberts (19-6), South Carolina (18-9), Pan American (20-5) and North Texas State (22-4).

Previously named to compete in the 12-team tournament were Louisville, Kentucky, North Carolina A&T, Niagara, Providenct and Oregon. Louisville, North Carolina State, Oregon and Kansas State were given first round byes.

The tournament will begin Saturday afternoon, March 13, at 1 o'clock with Kentucky meeting Niagara and Providence taking on North Carolina A&T. Another opening round doubleheader is scheduled for Saturday night, beginning at 7 p.m., with UNC-Charlotte facing San Francisco and St. Peter's opposing Holy Cross.

The winner of the UNC-Charlotte-San Francisco game will meet Oregon and the winner of the St. Peter's-Holy Cross encounter will face North Carolina State in the quarterfinals Monday night, March 15. Tuesday night's quarterfinals will pit the winner of the Niagara-Kentucky game against Kansas State and the winner of the Providence-North Carolina A&T contest opposite Louisville.

Semifinals are scheduled for Thursday night, March 18, with the final set for Sunday afternoon, March 21.

North Carolina State, which rejected a bid to appear in the NIT last year after losing in the Atlantic Cost Conference tournament, readily accepted this time after being upset in the first round of the ACC tourney by Virginia, the eventual winner. The Wolfpack were ranked among the top 10 early in the season and finished with a 19-8 record.

Seven hurt in Olympic site mishap

At least seven workers were injured Monday night when a slab of concrete apparently broke loose from the base of the tower designed to support the roof of the main stadium on the site for the 1976 Summer Olympics.

"We believe at least seven workers were injured. We are looking to determine if there were other workers at the base of the stadium at the time of the accident," a police spokesman said.

It was the second major accident at the site for the 1976 Summer Games in recent months. Last fall a worker was killed when a support beam for the main stadium fell on him.

Berry's World

The almanac

(by United Press International)

Today is Tuesday, March 9, the 69th day of 1976 with 297 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

Italian navigator Amerigo Vespucci was born March 9, 1451.

On this day in history:

• In 1822, the first patent for artificial teeth was awarded to Charles Graham of New York City.

• In 1947, after 440 days, the United Auto Workers reached an agreement with the Case Manufacturing Company of Racine, Wis., to end one of the longest strikes on record.

• In 1962, 31 men were killed in a coal mine explosion in West Germany.

• In 1967, Russian Communist dictator Josef Stalin's daughter, Svetlana, defected to the United States.

A thought for the day: President Calvin Coolidge said, "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anyone, anywhere, anytime."

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL 1776-1976

Dateline 1776

(by United Press International)

BOSTON, March 9 — British troops began boarding ships in the harbor. Gen. Washington rejected a petition that he avoid harassing the withdrawing forces but took no aggressive actions against them, suggesting there was a tacit agreement with British Gen. Howe.

The way we see it

Primary choice for Congress

We wish Republican voters in the 10th Congressional District had a stronger field to choose from in nominating a candidate to carry their party's banner into the general election contest against U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva.

We find ex-Congressman Samuel H. Young of Glenview to be the only qualified candidate running in this contest. Young served one term in the U.S. House, and we base our comment about his qualifications solely on that fact. A review of his record does not reveal any outstanding contributions.

Young has devoted much of the primary campaign to slinging tired, rehashed mud at Mikva. Because of the number of serious issues facing the country, we would hope Young will devote more attention in the future to campaigning on the issues.

His two opponents, State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Glenview, and attorney Daniel B. Hales, entered the race ill-prepared to either debate the issues or set themselves apart from one another.

Nimrod has served without distinction in the state senate. We can find no reason to recommend his nomination to run for Congress.

Hales was active in U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane's, R-12th, first campaign. He represents a new face on the political scene.

However, Hales admits he has not scrutinized Young's congressional record. Much like Nimrod and Young, Hales has shown little to distinguish himself from his opponents.

We find the campaign claim made by the three that they are running because they can beat Mikva to be meaningless and unsubstantiated. It is a disservice to the voters of the district who need a more thoughtful exchange of positions on issues.

'New world order threatens U. S.'

My compliments on a recent Paddock editorial urging the readers to more active participation in the coming elections. May I reemphasize that suggestion, and further suggest that Paddock readers seek out additional sources of information especially in the area of foreign affairs. The phrase "new world order" which appears quite frequently in our daily papers, is not just a catchy phrase. It is a plan to end our 200 years of nationhood and replace it with a world government. We are told that this would end wars and the threat of an atomic holocaust, but this is only a small part of the overall picture. Planning for this world government has been going on for over 50 years, and the planners agree that to maintain order over the vast population of this world the elite rulers would indeed have to rule with an iron fist. Furthermore, the wealth of the world would have to be redistributed. From each according to his means and to each according to his needs. The unpopularity of such a scheme is taken for granted, especially in this country, and that is why the proponents of this plan would prefer to bring it about piecemeal.

Where do I obtain this information? From a Council of Foreign Relations publication called Foreign Affairs. Is this just another crack-pot think tank? Hardly. The chairman of the board of the organization is David Rockefeller.

Recently when Sen. Birch Bayh and his committee were scrutinizing Nelson Rockefeller for the vice presidency, I wrote a telegram and a letter urging the senator to make some inquiries about Nelson Rockefeller's support of the Council of Foreign Relations. My thoughts were that it would not be right to have a vice president in office who really preferred a world government to our constitutional republic. The senator ignored my request, but he did answer my telegram and completely avoided the Council on Foreign Relations. A letter on the same subject brought a similar evasive reply. Later I found out that Senator Birch Bayh is also a member of the Council of Foreign Relations.

My suspicions of our vice president apparently were justified because in the January 1976 issues of American Opinion I read:

"The Rockefellers know that the roads to world government can be as varied as human hopes, fears, ambitions, ignorance and greed. And since the Rockefellers never put all of their financial or political eggs into one basket . . . they are involved in promoting every conceivable route to a world superstate . . . A complete listing of all organizations, movements, publications and programs supporting world government, which in turn are managed behind the scenes by the Rockefeller CFR (Council of Foreign Relations) axis, would fill a book the size of the Los Angeles area telephone directory."

Normally one would say, "Well, what can we do about it?" Well, this is an election year, and if you have any love for this country at all, you should do whatever you can to rid our government of anyone who approves of what Henry Kissinger is doing to bring about world government, and this of course includes President Ford. There is still plenty of time to find out which of the other presidential aspirants would approve of a world government or any form of a new world order. I certainly would suspect that Sen. Birch Bayh would fall into that category.

Lauds museum assistance

We express our deep gratitude for the financial support from individuals and organizations in Palatine toward the effort of obtaining a museum.

During the difficult weeks of culminating financial arrangements, some vandalism has taken place. We hope that the people who took the newel post and spindles from one stairway will realize their importance in the architectural restoration of the house and will return them.

The house remains structurally sound and has the potential of being a serviceable museum as well as a setting for Palatine artifacts and lovely antiques of that period. The woodwork is intact and will look lovely when layers of paint are removed. The rooms are large to accommodate lectures. The location allows us to use the parking facilities at the park district. (This has been previously arranged with the park board.)

The Palatine Police Department has pledged their support and, with their advice, a security system is being installed.

The enthusiasm and interest of all ages that has been conveyed to us during our Palatine history talks to local organizations has been heartwarming.

Thank you for your continued support. We will be taking ownership immediately.

Choose mayor openly

A tentative plan by the Des Plaines City Council to select in secret a successor to retiring Mayor Herbert H. Behrel is one with which we cannot agree.

The council should withdraw any ideas of taking closed-door action because the person selected will be a representative of all the people of Des Plaines. These residents should be able to know who the council is considering, and they also must be allowed to voice their opinions at open council meetings.

Des Plaines never has been a government to operate behind closed doors while Behrel was mayor, and it would be wrong for his successor to begin a reign under a cloud of secrecy.

Before the council votes on the selection method, it should look long and hard at the effects its actions will have after Behrel is gone.

Des Plaines always has been a leader in government open to public scrutiny, and now is not the time to take a step backwards.

A 'beautiful' story

Mike Klein's "People" column on Clarence Davis was beautiful — and I don't think it's simply my bias speaking.

The morning you put Clarence on page one I joined the throng at the paper vending machine to look at Clarence through the machine window. A surgical visitor nearby said, "That man goes to our church, and he's exactly like that article says."

Diabetes group applauds The Herald

In June, the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation Chicago Northwest Chapter will have been in existence three years. The first JDF chapter in Illinois was founded right here in the Northwest suburbs in Mount Prospect. Started by a handful of parents of diabetic children, it has successfully continued to grow and fulfill its role as a community voluntary health agency serving the general public and the diabetic and his family, while continually raising funds for diabetes research.

As a founding member, I wish to express our deepest appreciation to Paddock Publications, specifically Eleanor Rives, Tom Wellman, Pat Adam and Marianne Scott for their excellent coverage for all facets of our organization's work through these years. Surely your help has contributed immeasurably to our success.

Since we maintain a volunteer office staff and donated office space, and all advertising, public relations and fundraising work is also done solely by volunteers, we feel gratified that over 95 per cent of the money we have raised locally has gone to diabetes research, again completely with volunteers who had no previous fund-raising experience. I suppose it just goes to prove the old adage, "You don't know what you can do until you try."

And we keep trying. The National Juvenile Diabetes Foundation and its 60 chapters located in every state will be conducting their yearly national fund-raising drive for diabetes research during the month of May. We will be "canning" in front of stores, train stations and going door-to-door.

We would deeply appreciate any help that caring individuals or members of civic organizations may be able to offer to aid us in this drive. If you can give some of your time to help us make our goal of "a cure for sure" a reality, then please call one of the following area May Month Committee Members: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kasper at 253-4435.

Was it really an endorsement for Ford?

Jest to set the record strate — who was it that Miss Rice said our Wheeling Township Republican club endorsed for President? As I recollect it, that Monday night meeting of precinct captains, only 47 out of a total of 123 Wheeling precincts declared for Ford. The other 19 there voted for Gov. Reagan.

Don't rightly see how she could call that a township endorsement of "slip-in" President Ford, do you? In fact, jest 'cuz someone higher up tells a captain where to put his mark doesn't mean he's asked his neighbors how they feel. He's supposed to do what they tell him they want.

We sure do seem to have trouble here in Wheeling Township tellin' others what our people want — like the way you keep pluggin' for the Warmans and, last time, the Betty Spences when all the time you know how we all go for that handsome young feller Crane down in Washington. Seems like The Herald would have learned by now that this h'yar's Crane country. And what he says goes! Why, I know lots a' cute young things that'd fly right off'n the top of Big John if Phil was to tell 'em to.

So why don't you fellers down there get someone who will tell the facts, man, that's all we want from that "rag" of yours, is some facts about how our neighbors feel — how about some, whatcha' call it, "in-depth" reportin' or "behind the scenes tellin'"?

Sure would help if us voters kinda' knew what went on at those meetings where those few fellers decide for the 7,000 other registered Republicans in our township. No way do we want to send a guy to Kansas City in August without knowin' jest how he's goin' to vote. And what's even more important, efin' he's gonna' truly do what we want him to!

Jest thought I'd tell you what really happened at the township Republican meetin' that Monday night. Sure wish somebody down there would learn to tell it like it is — and how us Crane people feel about all this politicking here in our township!

School's closing OK to reader

After reading the Feb. 24 article about the citizens' committee's decision to recommend closing Sunset School, I could not help but write and let these people know how many of us feel.

I applaud their courageous decision. Our family resides in the Sunset area but because of the emotional tie of having two older boys attend Lions Park for so many years, we made the decision to send our third child to Lions also. Physically we are better located for attending Lions also.

I have many friends whose children attend Sunset, so I do feel much sympathy for their children being uprooted from their neighborhood school.

But I feel that the committee was wise in considering all the district children's interests rather than the relatively small number attending Sunset.

I only hope the board is as courageous as the citizens' committee and will follow their recommendation.

'Keep the name'

I am all for progress and improvement in our district, anywhere for that matter. However, I've come to the conclusion that changing our title (High School Dist. 214) would not be a step forward. In fact, I feel that it might be a step backwards.

Be it a name or a number, I cannot imagine IBM, AT&T, Cadillac or any others changing their titles. When a corporation or institution has gradually earned a position of respect, they strive to perpetuate that quality or reputation. They do so by repeating the name whenever and wherever possible. As a result, the public will automatically equate that title with quality, respect, etc.

On the contrary, abandoning that name will most certainly result in an identity crisis of major proportions. While past achievements remain, the tradition they represent will not be identified with any new name. The stature that has taken years to reach will be diminished and/or distorted as quickly as the name is changed.

Only a lengthy, expensive and consistent campaign will begin to restore the dividends we have already reaped. The proper selection of names should occur at birth, not after maturity. I'm proud of my association with "Dist. 214."

He attacks Howlett

The Herald's editorial of Feb. 5 "Howlett should explain job," was well taken in urging Michael Howlett, present $42,500-a-year Illinois Secretary of State and Mayor Daley's Democratic gubernatorial candidate to explain his part-time, $15,000-a-year job with the Sun Steel Corp. Wisely the editorial also called for Howlett's resignation from Sun. The editorial could have called for Howlett's withdrawal from the Democratic gubernatorial March 16 primary. Perhaps the editor thought of doing this; but, with great wisdom, may have considered the horrible alternative, i.e., Gov. Walker.

Ask Andy

Tarsier—could be monkey's uncle

Andy sends an award to Chris Stamatelos, 13, of West Des Moines, Iowa, for his question:

WHAT IS A TARSIER?

A cartoonist could draw a great many faces, but probably never come up with one more engaging than the tarsier's. Looking like a happy little elf, he lives among the treetops, leaping lightly from bough to bough looking for his nightly meal.

A tarsier is a tiny creature who lives in the forests of Sumatra, Java, Borneo and other Pacific islands. He ranges in size from 5 to 9 inches long, with another 10 inches added by a slender furless tail. He is a relative of the monkey clan, and as such he is a born climber.

His name comes from the extra-long tarsal bones found in his ankle. His tiny fingers and toes end in a larger than normal pad that is grooved like the tread on a automobile tire. This gives him extra holding power as he jumps from tree to tree. He has long claws on his second and third fingers and toes, which he uses to groom himself.

The tarsier's dominating facial features are a pair of super-size round eyes and large Mickey Mouse ears. His saucer-like eyes are handy, as he is a creature of the night. His big ears catch faint sounds to help him locate his insect prey. A small puglike nose rests above a tiny mouth and chin. His head, which can turn almost all the way around, sits upon a delicate body that is covered with woolly golden-brown fur.

Very little is known about the tarsier's private life, since he spends the daylight hours tucked away sleeping in his secluded abode. Mother tarsier gives birth to a single infant that enters the world ready-to-go. The baby is born with its eyes open, he's covered with fur and capable of climbing and making short hops. When mother goes leapfrogging through the forest, baby is right with her, hanging on for dear life.

Tarsiers are the smallest members of the primate monkey clan. Their ancestors can be traced back some 60 million years. Close relatives include the marmosets, lemurs and a squirrel-like animal called the aye-aye. More distant relatives are the monkeys and the great apes.

Ask Andy

Tarsier—could be monkey's uncle

Andy sends an award to Chris Stamatelos, 13, of West Des Moines, Iowa, for his question:

WHAT IS A TARSIER?

A cartoonist could draw a great many faces, but probably never come up with one more engaging than the tarsier's. Looking like a happy little elf, he lives among the treetops, leaping lightly from bough to bough looking for his nightly meal.

A tarsier is a tiny creature who lives in the forests of Sumatra, Java, Borneo and other Pacific islands. He ranges in size from 5 to 9 inches long, with another 10 inches added by a slender furless tail. He is a relative of the monkey clan, and as such he is a born climber.

His name comes from the extra-long tarsal bones found in his ankle. His tiny fingers and toes end in a larger than normal pad that is grooved like the tread on a automobile tire. This gives him extra holding power as he jumps from tree to tree. He has long claws on his second and third fingers and toes, which he uses to groom himself.

The tarsier's dominating facial features are a pair of super-size round eyes and large Mickey Mouse ears. His saucer-like eyes are handy, as he is a creature of the night. His big ears catch faint sounds to help him locate his insect prey. A small puglike nose rests above a tiny mouth and chin. His head, which can turn almost all the way around, sits upon a delicate body that is covered with woolly golden-brown fur.

Very little is known about the tarsier's private life, since he spends the daylight hours tucked away sleeping in his secluded abode. Mother tarsier gives birth to a single infant that enters the world ready-to-go. The baby is born with its eyes open, he's covered with fur and capable of climbing and making short hops. When mother goes leapfrogging through the forest, baby is right with her, hanging on for dear life.

Tarsiers are the smallest members of the primate monkey clan. Their ancestors can be traced back some 60 million years. Close relatives include the marmosets, lemurs and a squirrel-like animal called the aye-aye. More distant relatives are the monkeys and the great apes.

'Don't Just Lie There... ' not family entertainment

by PAT ADAM

One cannot accuse The Guild Players of being timid in their current choice of a play. "Don't Just Lie There, Say Something" is hardly family entertainment.

A comedy in the not-so-subtle manner of the English when treating the subject of sex, this two-act farce may well have had its inspiration in the scandalous escapades of a one-time minister in the British government. But any resemblance to real life ends there. The play itself is a fantasy of errors that relies on split-second timing of entrances and exits into a closet, up a stairway, through an open window or under a bed.

Action takes place in the "love nest" — a townhouse — of an amorous member of Parliament, currently a minister in the government. The characters in this romp include, besides the amorous M.P., a doddering M.P. intent on exposing the minister, a naive young protege of the philandering minister and a skeptical inspector from Scotland Yard plus assorted birds (females) who flock to the love nest.

THE YOUNG M.P. is kidnaped, doped and enticed into behavior that will embarrass the minister in an effort to force him to give up proposed legislation. The police trace the young man to the minister's townhouse, not realizing who it is they seek. Most of the shenanigans involve keeping the inspector from finding out — and from discovering the various females on the premises.

Roger DuBois plays Barry Ovis, the plumber's son who still can't believe he has risen to the heights of Parliament. DuBois give Barry just the right touch of innocence.

Bernie Kerrigan does an excellent job as the philandering Sir William Mainwaring Brown, but he could improve the performance by slowing down his delivery a bit, particularly in his telephone conversations.

STEVE HELLER is hilarious as the forgetful snooping Rt. Hon. Wilfred Potts, who can't remember just what brought him to the minister's house. And Dick Kelly comes across most convincingly as Inspector Ruff, who must make some sense out of all the confusion.

Unfortunately, playwright Michael Pertwee didn't do as well by the females in his play. They tend to be stereotyped roles with few punchy lines.

Sandy Reiman portrays Barry Ovis' fiancee, Jean, a rather lacklustre individual who can't quite believe what's happening. As the scheming Gisele Parkyn, who uses her feminine wiles to wheedle business for her father from the minister, Iris Tompkins could be sexier.

Tina Vidmar appears as the young agitator responsible for Barry's fall from grace. She spends most of her time under the bed. Ms. Vidmar, too, tends to rush her lines when talking on the telephone.

PEGGY ANN Deichstetter plays the buxom Wendy, one of Mainwaring Brown's birds, who complicates matters with an unexpected appearance at his townhouse.

The comedy tends to become a mite tedious with its ins and outs, ups and downs and all the other running around in the second act, but the overall action inspired plenty of laughter from the opening night audience — though I suspect they got something more risque than they bargained for, judging from remarks I overheard.

"Don't Just Lie There, Say Something" will be playing again Friday and Saturday at Vogelei Barn, Golf and Higgins Roads, Hoffman Estates. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. For tickets call 884-1894.

Mid-week review

South does his arithmetic

South bid four spades rather cheerfully although he didn't really expect to make it, He rather hoped that East or West would take the push for five hearts, but everyone passed and the defense started out with two hearts and two clubs before shifting to a diamond.

South was on lead and had to pick up the queen of spades in order to hold the penalty to a mere 100 points.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The game was duplicate and South noted that minus 100 would be worth some match points since some East-West pairs would have been allowed to play at a heart partial and three hearts would be a surefire contract irrespective of how the spades divided. South noted further that if spades were 3-1 the four heart contract would have wheeled in, so South banged down his top spades, picked up the queen and was one down.

Suppose spades broke 3-1. Then South would have been minus 200, for down two, but East-West would have made their heart game, if allowed to play it.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

'Don't Just Lie There...' not family entertainment

Mid-week review

by PAT ADAM

One cannot accuse The Guild Players of being timid in their current choice of a play. "Don't Just Lie There, Say Something" is hardly family entertainment.

A comedy in the not-so-subtle manner of the English when treating the subject of sex, this two-act farce may well have had its inspiration in the scandalous escapades of a one-time minister in the British government. But any resemblance to real life ends there. The play itself is a fantasy of errors that relies on split-second timing of entrances and exits into a closet, up a stairway, through an open window or under a bed.

Action takes place in the "love nest" — a townhouse — of an amorous member of Parliament, currently a minister in the government. The characters in this romp include, besides the amorous M.P., a doddering M.P. intent on exposing the minister, a naive young protege of the philandering minister and a skeptical inspector from Scotland Yard plus assorted birds (females) who flock to the love nest.

THE YOUNG M.P. is kidnaped, doped and enticed into behavior that will embarrass the minister in an effort to force him to give up proposed legislation. The police trace the young man to the minister's townhouse, not realizing who it is they seek. Most of the shenanigans involve keeping the inspector from finding out — and from discovering the various females on the premises.

Roger DuBois plays Barry Ovis, the plumber's son who still can't believe he has risen to the heights of Parliament. DuBois give Barry just the right touch of innocence.

Bernie Kerrigan does an excellent job as the philandering Sir William Mainwaring Brown, but he could improve the performance by slowing down his delivery a bit, particularly in his telephone conversations.

STEVE HELLER is hilarious as the forgetful snooping Rt. Hon. Wilfred Potts, who can't remember just what brought him to the minister's house. And Dick Kelly comes across most convincingly as Inspector Ruff, who must make some sense out of all the confusion.

Unfortunately, playwright Michael Pertwee didn't do as well by the females in his play. They tend to be stereotyped roles with few punchy lines.

Sandy Reiman portrays Barry Ovis' fiancee, Jean, a rather lacklustre individual who can't quite believe what's happening. As the scheming Gisele Parkyn, who uses her feminine wiles to wheedle business for her father from the minister, Iris Tompkins could be sexier.

Tina Vidmar appears as the young agitator responsible for Barry's fall from grace. She spends most of her time under the bed. Ms. Vidmar, too, tends to rush her lines when talking on the telephone.

PEGGY ANN Deichstetter plays the buxom Wendy, one of Mainwaring Brown's birds, who complicates matters with an unexpected appearance at his townhouse.

The comedy tends to become a mite tedious with its ins and outs, ups and downs and all the other running around in the second act, but the overall action inspired plenty of laughter from the opening night audience — though I suspect they got something more risque than they bargained for, judging from remarks I overheard.

"Don't Just Lie There, Say Something" will be playing again Friday and Saturday at Vogelei Barn, Golf and Higgins Roads, Hoffman Estates. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. For tickets call 884-1894.

South does his arithmetic

South bid four spades rather cheerfully although he didn't really expect to make it, He rather hoped that East or West would take the push for five hearts, but everyone passed and the defense started out with two hearts and two clubs before shifting to a diamond.

South was on lead and had to pick up the queen of spades in order to hold the penalty to a mere 100 points.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The game was duplicate and South noted that minus 100 would be worth some match points since some East-West pairs would have been allowed to play at a heart partial and three hearts would be a surefire contract irrespective of how the spades divided. South noted further that if spades were 3-1 the four heart contract would have wheeled in, so South banged down his top spades, picked up the queen and was one down.

Suppose spades broke 3-1. Then South would have been minus 200, for down two, but East-West would have made their heart game, if allowed to play it.

Helen Howlett alters that 'homebody' image

THOUGH A SEASONED trouper in the political realm, Helen Howlett calls the present campaign a "very nasty" because of conflict of interest charges that have been made against her husband, Mike, charges she labels, "hogwash."

by WANDALYN RICE

Helen Howlett says that as a politician's wife, she'd rather be like Bess Truman than like Betty Ford.

Mrs. Truman, she says, "was a real mother and stayed home with the family. That's the way I was raised."

But the wife of the secretary of state who is running for governor knows there is more to Bess Truman than the traditional "homebody image." Her eyes twinkle merrily when reminded that President Truman called his wife the "boss" and took her advice on major policy issues.

"I hope I can do the same kinds of things," she says with a hint of mischievousness in her voice.

At first glance, Mrs. Howlett looks like the archtypical Irish matron with reddish hair and a demeanor which still has hints of Irish lass about her.

A few minutes conversation confirms the physical impression and adds another. She is a seasoned political trouper, schooled in the ways of Illinois politics and harboring few illusions about the life.

Her father was committeeman of Chicago's fourth ward for years and was an investigator for the Cook County State's Attorney's office during the famed Leopold-Loeb murder case. He also served as a president of the Chicago Civil Service Commission and city sealer.

"I ALWAYS SAID I'd never marry a politician, not because it was crooked, but because I'd watch my dad when he'd come home for dinner with the family and there would always be somebody at the door to talk to him. His time wasn't his own," she says.

Despite the pledge, she married Mike Howlett, a young man who had known her father for years. Both she and her husband tell the story of their meeting with the aplomb of people who have refined a story through hundreds of tellings.

"I met Mike in the state's attorney's office where I was working," she says. "He was a good friend of the family and when he came in he came to see Marshall Korshak (later state revenue director and city collector) and I said, 'You must be Mike Howlett — I'm Helen Geary.' He said, 'Where have you been? I've never met you before.' "

Mrs. Howlett does not hide the fact she wishes her husband was running for reelection as secretary of state, instead of running for governor. "He doesn't take my advice very well. The only thing he ever consulted me on was whether to run for governor — and he didn't listen," she says.

THE CAMPAIGN against Gov. Daniel Walker has been marked by recurring charges that Howlett has been involved in conflicts of interest because of a $15,000 a year consulting job with Sun Steel Co. a job he resigned after denying any wrongdoing.

The charges, Mrs. Howlett says, are "hogwash" and the campaign "is a very nasty campaign. I can never remember a campaign like this."

Shortly after the initial Sun Steel disclosures, the police were called to investigate the possibility two men who had tried to pick up the Howlett family laundry near their Chicago home had been intent on breaking into the Howlett home.

Mrs. Howlett traces what she calls that "scare" to the Sun Steel disclosure and the fact Walker and other opposing candidates emphasized the $15,000 a year amounted to "a quarter of a million dollars" in 15 years.

The woman behind the man

"They say 'quarter of a million dollars' like we got that once a month," she says." What it comes down to is $1,000 a month and that doesn't go far when you have children in school."

EVEN THOUGH Mrs. Howlett's voice is tinged with Irish temper when she talks about the charges, she says, "You can't get angry about it because when you get angry, you pull yourself down to their level. It's all childish as far as I'm concerned."

She says she is sure the "best man" will win the March 16 primary and "I know it's going to be Howlett. I'd put Mike Howlett up against anyone."

But if he should lose, she reminds her listener, it won't be a new experience. Howlett was defeated in two tries for office in the 1950s before he finally won an election to state auditor in 1960.

"It isn't easy to lose, but it's happened before and it won't bother us," she says. "I once told Mike that if you're going to go into politics, you have to learn to take the knocks as well as the glory."

Buehler Y Distaffs show to salute 1976 fashions

Buehler YMCA Distaffs will present its "Salute to '76" fashion show at Countryside Mall, Palatine, Thursday, March 1. Women's fashions will be from Bertie and men's from Peter Daniel. Also modeled will be sports attire from Pro Sport Center, custom-made jewelry from French Quarter and casual clothing from Just Pants. Models will be Distaffs members and their husbands.

Punch will be served from 7:30 to 8 p.m.; the show begins at 8 with dessert and coffee following.

Tickets, at $3, are available at the "Y" or from Jean Clifford, 358-2566. Tables for eight may be reserved. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

Parents warned about pacifier

Dr. Joyce Lashof, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, today warned residents of Illinois against the use of baby pacifiers called Chupetes.

A Chupetes pacifier caused the death of a 5-month-old New York boy when the plastic shield was caught in his mouth and he was asphyxiated.

"Although Chupetes, which are imported from Spain, are distributed in the United States on the East Coast and in Florida," Dr. Lashof said, "it is possible that persons in Illinois may have them in their homes."

The Chupetes pacifier, which costs about 45 cents, is two inches long with a one-inch soft nipple. The plastic shield is an inch and a half inches in diameter, small enough to enter a baby's mouth.

A Chupetes pacifier has on the handle either an animal head, a flower, a baby wearing a cowboy hat or a baby wearing a sailor hat.

Anyone who may possess a Chupetes pacifier should take it away from the child immediately, Dr. Lashof said. "If the product was purchased in Illinois," Dr. Lashof advised, "contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Office of Consumer Health Protection, 535 W. Jefferson, Springfield."

Happenings

Arts, crafts on display

More than 40 artists and craftsmen from the Chicago area will show and sell their works at a Festival of the Arts Saturday, March 20, in Mount Prospect Community Center.

A variety of paintings will be featured including oils, acrylics and watercolors. Exhibits will include copper jewelry, dried flower arrangements, wood craft, leather craft, stained glass and painted china.

A special attraction will be a puppeteer who will entertain and conduct a workshop in which children will be taught to make puppets from supplies they may purchase at a nominal cost.

The Festival of the Arts is organized and sponsored by the fine arts department of Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club.

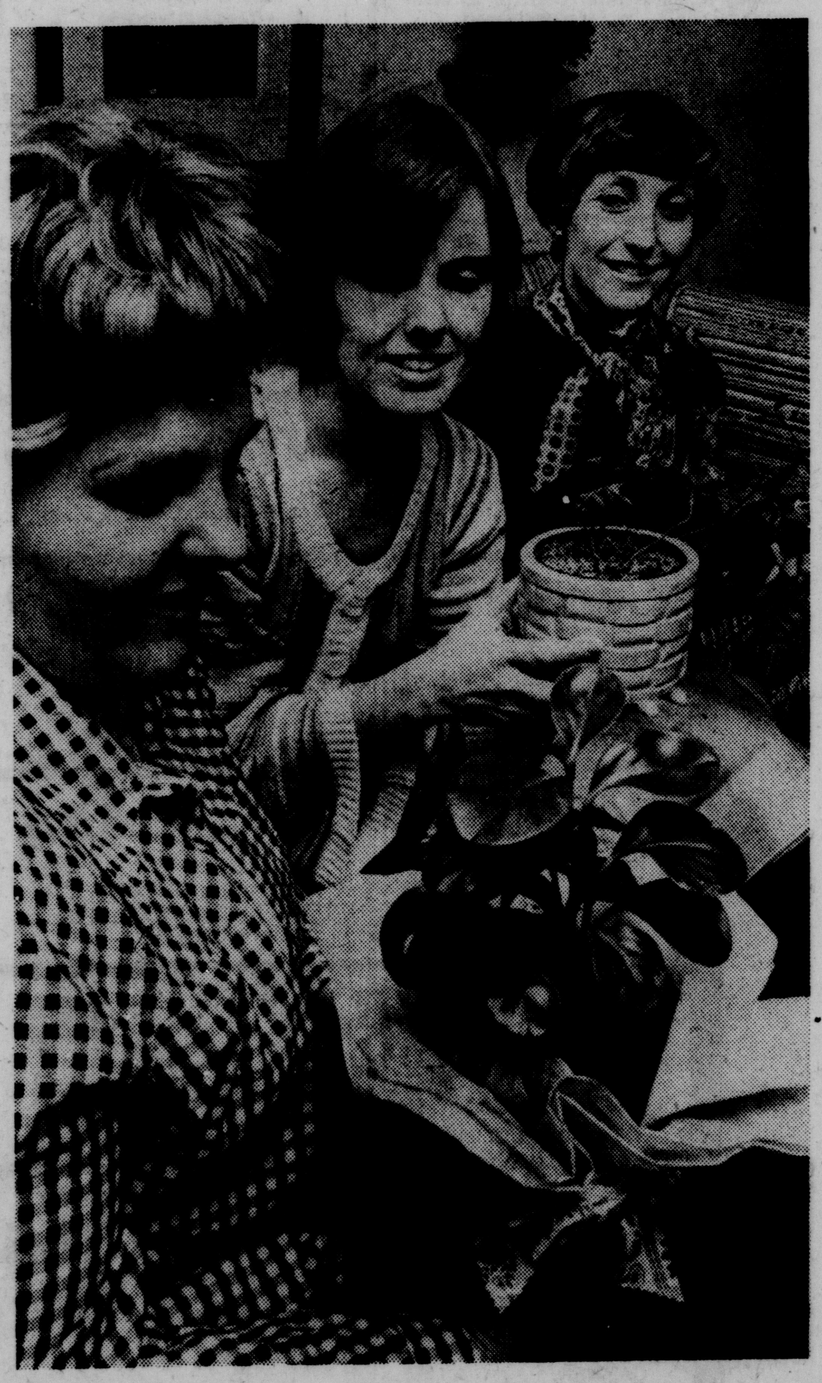

Doors of the Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwun, Mount Prospect, will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A 25-cent admission fee will benefit a local art scholarship.

NCJW to show fashions

Poplar Creek Unit of the National Council of Jewish Women will host a men's and women's fashion show and dinner Saturday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Hackney's Restaurant, Lake Zurich.

Peter Daniel of Countryside will provide the men's wear, Alroe of Woodfield will show women's ensembles.

Tickets are $7.50 per person. Further information is available at 359-9236.

BERIBBONED POTTED plants will bring springtime to the tables in Old Orchard Country Club Saturday, March 27, for "Spring Holiday," fashion luncheon sponsored by Elk Grove Village Nurses. Barbara Helfers, Judy Moore and Lorie Lange help decorate the pots. Fashions will be from Cloud Nine, and tickets, at $5.50, are available by calling 593-6982. Proceeds will go toward the Mary Ann Davidson Memorial Scholarship and the lending closet.

Members hope to reach a consensus so they can testify at Planning Commission meetings.

The morning unit at 9 o'clock will be held in the home of Carolyn Roberts, and evening unit at 8 o'clock in the home of Jane Benak. Both meetings are open to the public. Baby-sitting reservations for the morning meeting may be made by calling 827-8734.

Consumer appointments expected this week

The Senate Committee on Commerce this week is scheduled to act on two consumer appointments in the Ford Administration.

Hearings will be held Wednesday on the nomination of Calvin Collier, son of former Illinois Congressman Harold Collier of Berwyn, to head the Federal Trade Commission.

The committee is also expected to decide on the nomination of S. John Byington to head the Consumer Products Safety Commission. Byington is from Grand Rapids, Mich., President Ford's hometown.

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., is a member of the Commerce Committee, which is chaired by Warren Magnuson, D. Wash.

Collier, 34, is currently associate director for economics and government in the Office of Management and Budget, which is directed by James T. Lynn. Collier was Lynn's special assistant when the latter was undersecrttary of commerce in 1972.

For two years between his assignments in Commerce and OMB, Collier was general counsel to the FTC.

His nomination is not expected to be opposed by consumer advocates, according to Andy Feinstein of Congress Watch, a Ralph Nader organization. Feinstein said Collier has exhibited "fair concern and accessibility" with regard to consumer interests.

Congress Watch worked with Collier in developing parts of the Magnuson-Moss FTC Improvement Act, which allowed consumer organizations to participate in FTC proceedings by granting them legal fees, Feinstein said.

However, Congress Watch has actively opposed the Byington nomination, charging the Ford associate with a "lack of consumer consciousness."

Byington was formerly deputy director in the Office of Field Operations of the Commerce Department, a post involving the promotion of exports. He most recently has been on the staff of Virginia Knauer, the President's special assistant for consumer affairs.

The former director of the CPSC, Richard O. Simpson, resigned in protest against lack of support from Ford.

Helen Howlett alters that 'homebody' image

THOUGH A SEASONED trouper in the political realm, Helen Howlett calls the present campaign a "very nasty" because of conflict of interest charges that have been made against her husband, Mike, charges she labels, "hogwash."

by WANDALYN RICE

Helen Howlett says that as a politician's wife, she'd rather be like Bess Truman than like Betty Ford.

Mrs. Truman, she says, "was a real mother and stayed home with the family. That's the way I was raised."

But the wife of the secretary of state who is running for governor knows there is more to Bess Truman than the traditional "homebody image." Her eyes twinkle merrily when reminded that President Truman called his wife the "boss" and took her advice on major policy issues.

"I hope I can do the same kinds of things," she says with a hint of mischievousness in her voice.

At first glance, Mrs. Howlett looks like the archtypical Irish matron with reddish hair and a demeanor which still has hints of Irish lass about her.

A few minutes conversation confirms the physical impression and adds another. She is a seasoned political trouper, schooled in the ways of Illinois politics and harboring few illusions about the life.

Her father was committeeman of Chicago's fourth ward for years and was an investigator for the Cook County State's Attorney's office during the famed Leopold-Loeb murder case. He also served as a president of the Chicago Civil Service Commission and city sealer.

"I ALWAYS SAID I'd never marry a politician, not because it was crooked, but because I'd watch my dad when he'd come home for dinner with the family and there would always be somebody at the door to talk to him. His time wasn't his own," she says.

Despite the pledge, she married Mike Howlett, a young man who had known her father for years. Both she and her husband tell the story of their meeting with the aplomb of people who have refined a story through hundreds of tellings.

"I met Mike in the state's attorney's office where I was working," she says. "He was a good friend of the family and when he came in he came to see Marshall Korshak (later state revenue director and city collector) and I said, 'You must be Mike Howlett — I'm Helen Geary.' He said, 'Where have you been? I've never met you before.' "

Mrs. Howlett does not hide the fact she wishes her husband was running for reelection as secretary of state, instead of running for governor. "He doesn't take my advice very well. The only thing he ever consulted me on was whether to run for governor — and he didn't listen," she says.

THE CAMPAIGN against Gov. Daniel Walker has been marked by recurring charges that Howlett has been involved in conflicts of interest because of a $15,000 a year consulting job with Sun Steel Co. a job he resigned after denying any wrongdoing.

The charges, Mrs. Howlett says, are "hogwash" and the campaign "is a very nasty campaign. I can never remember a campaign like this."

Shortly after the initial Sun Steel disclosures, the police were called to investigate the possibility two men who had tried to pick up the Howlett family laundry near their Chicago home had been intent on breaking into the Howlett home.

Mrs. Howlett traces what she calls that "scare" to the Sun Steel disclosure and the fact Walker and other opposing candidates emphasized the $15,000 a year amounted to "a quarter of a million dollars" in 15 years.

The woman behind the man

"They say 'quarter of a million dollars' like we got that once a month," she says." What it comes down to is $1,000 a month and that doesn't go far when you have children in school."

EVEN THOUGH Mrs. Howlett's voice is tinged with Irish temper when she talks about the charges, she says, "You can't get angry about it because when you get angry, you pull yourself down to their level. It's all childish as far as I'm concerned."

She says she is sure the "best man" will win the March 16 primary and "I know it's going to be Howlett. I'd put Mike Howlett up against anyone."

But if he should lose, she reminds her listener, it won't be a new experience. Howlett was defeated in two tries for office in the 1950s before he finally won an election to state auditor in 1960.

"It isn't easy to lose, but it's happened before and it won't bother us," she says. "I once told Mike that if you're going to go into politics, you have to learn to take the knocks as well as the glory."

Buehler Y Distaffs show to salute 1976 fashions

Buehler YMCA Distaffs will present its "Salute to '76" fashion show at Countryside Mall, Palatine, Thursday, March 1. Women's fashions will be from Bertie and men's from Peter Daniel. Also modeled will be sports attire from Pro Sport Center, custom-made jewelry from French Quarter and casual clothing from Just Pants. Models will be Distaffs members and their husbands.

Punch will be served from 7:30 to 8 p.m.; the show begins at 8 with dessert and coffee following.

Tickets, at $3, are available at the "Y" or from Jean Clifford, 358-2566. Tables for eight may be reserved. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

Happenings

Arts, crafts on display

More than 40 artists and craftsmen from the Chicago area will show and sell their works at a Festival of the Arts Saturday, March 20, in Mount Prospect Community Center.

A variety of paintings will be featured including oils, acrylics and watercolors. Exhibits will include copper jewelry, dried flower arrangements, wood craft, leather craft, stained glass and painted china.

A special attraction will be a puppeteer who will entertain and conduct a workshop in which children will be taught to make puppets from supplies they may purchase at a nominal cost.

The Festival of the Arts is organized and sponsored by the fine arts department of Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club.

Doors of the Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwun, Mount Prospect, will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A 25-cent admission fee will benefit a local art scholarship.

NCJW to show fashions

Poplar Creek Unit of the National Council of Jewish Women will host a men's and women's fashion show and dinner Saturday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Hackney's Restaurant, Lake Zurich.

Peter Daniel of Countryside will provide the men's wear, Alroe of Woodfield will show women's ensembles.

Tickets are $7.50 per person. Further information is available at 359-9236.

Parents warned about pacifier

Dr. Joyce Lashof, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, today warned residents of Illinois against the use of baby pacifiers called Chupetes.

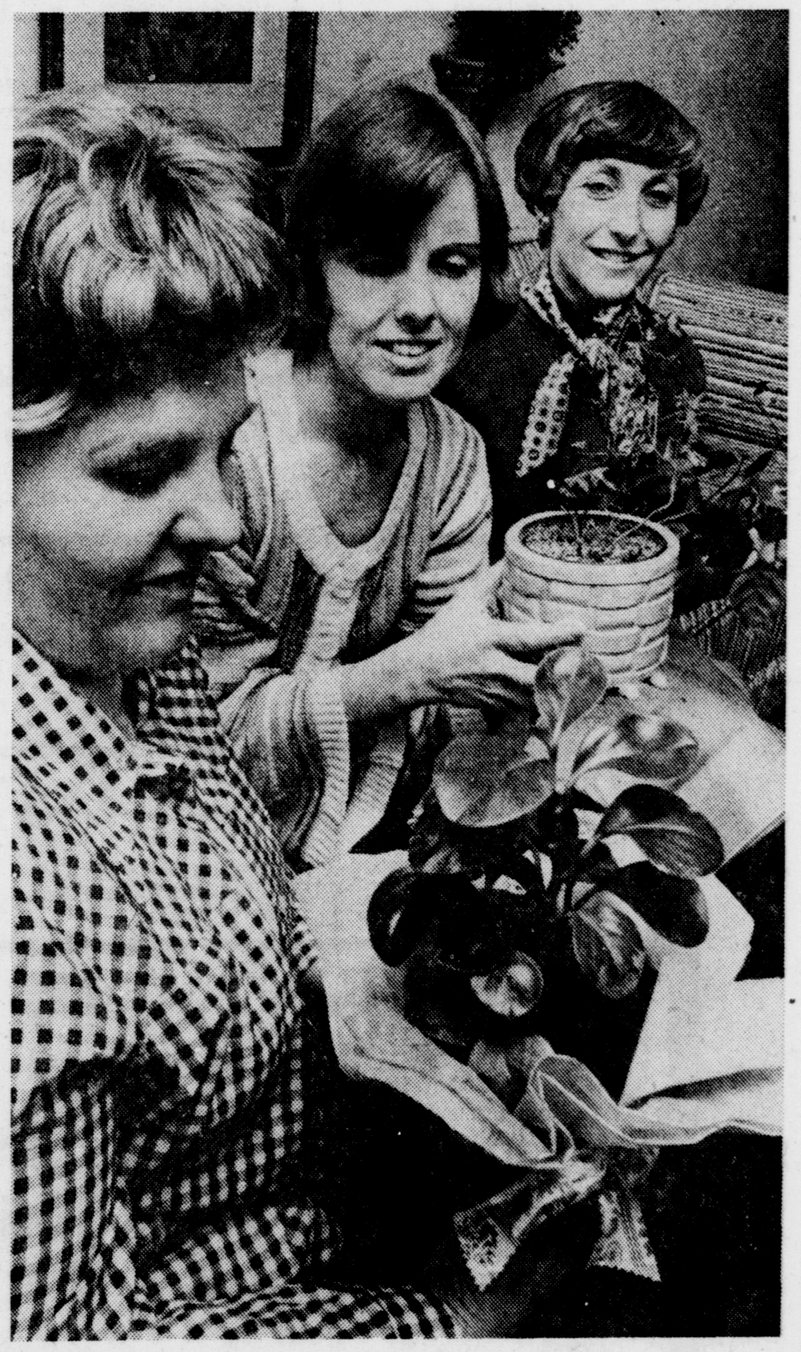

A Chupetes pacifier caused the death of a 5-month-old New York boy when the plastic shield was caught in his mouth and he was asphyxiated.

"Although Chupetes, which are imported from Spain, are distributed in the United States on the East Coast and in Florida," Dr. Lashof said, "it is possible that persons in Illinois may have them in their homes."

The Chupetes pacifier, which costs about 45 cents, is two inches long with a one-inch soft nipple. The plastic shield is an inch and a half inches in diameter, small enough to enter a baby's mouth.

A Chupetes pacifier has on the handle either an animal head, a flower, a baby wearing a cowboy hat or a baby wearing a sailor hat.

Anyone who may possess a Chupetes pacifier should take it away from the child immediately, Dr. Lashof said. "If the product was purchased in Illinois," Dr. Lashof advised, "contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Office of Consumer Health Protection, 535 W. Jefferson, Springfield."

BERIBBONED POTTED plants will bring springtime to the tables in Old Orchard Country Club Saturday, March 27, for "Spring Holiday," fashion luncheon sponsored by Elk Grove Village Nurses. Barbara Helfers, Judy Moore and Lorie Lange help decorate the pots. Fashions will be from Cloud Nine, and tickets, at $5.50, are available by calling 593-6982. Proceeds will go toward the Mary Ann Davidson Memorial Scholarship and the lending closet.

League of Women Voters

Land use and recommendations of David Outhred, whose citizen poll indicates that "meter parking and unpleasant downtown environment" are the top problems of downtown Des Plaines, will be the topics at Wednesday's unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Des Plaines. Members hope to reach a consensus so they can testify at Planning Commission meetings.

The morning unit at 9 o'clock will be held in the home of Carolyn Roberts, and evening unit at 8 o'clock in the home of Jane Benak. Both meetings are open to the public. Baby-sitting reservations for the morning meeting may be made by calling 827-8734.

Consumer appointments expected this week

The Senate Committee on Commerce this week is scheduled to act on two consumer appointments in the Ford Administration.

Hearings will be held Wednesday on the nomination of Calvin Collier, son of former Illinois Congressman Harold Collier of Berwyn, to head the Federal Trade Commission.

The committee is also expected to decide on the nomination of S. John Byington to head the Consumer Products Safety Commission. Byington is from Grand Rapids, Mich., President Ford's hometown.

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., is a member of the Commerce Committee, which is chaired by Warren Magnuson, D. Wash.

Collier, 34, is currently associate director for economics and government in the Office of Management and Budget, which is directed by James T. Lynn. Collier was Lynn's special assistant when the latter was undersecrttary of commerce in 1972.

For two years between his assignments in Commerce and OMB, Collier was general counsel to the FTC.

His nomination is not expected to be opposed by consumer advocates, according to Andy Feinstein of Congress Watch, a Ralph Nader organization. Feinstein said Collier has exhibited "fair concern and accessibility" with regard to consumer interests.

Congress Watch worked with Collier in developing parts of the Magnuson-Moss FTC Improvement Act, which allowed consumer organizations to participate in FTC proceedings by granting them legal fees, Feinstein said.

However, Congress Watch has actively opposed the Byington nomination, charging the Ford associate with a "lack of consumer consciousness."

Byington was formerly deputy director in the Office of Field Operations of the Commerce Department, a post involving the promotion of exports. He most recently has been on the staff of Virginia Knauer, the President's special assistant for consumer affairs.

The former director of the CPSC, Richard O. Simpson, resigned in protest against lack of support from Ford.

Is there a cure for them when the cause is not known? It seems after I have had a real bad attack they don't return for about a week. I have had them off and on for a month now. Please help me if you can.

Recurrent, chronic type hives are difficult to treat, particularly if the cause can't be established.

Hives are an allergic reaction. The red, swollen area is caused by release of chemicals within the body that act on the tiny capillaries and let fluid leak out of the circulation and produce irritations.

Perhaps the most common cause of hives is food allergy. Finding out which foods cause the allergy is another matter. One can also have hives from things inhaled or from contact with things one is allergic to, such as animal dander or as a generalized response to bites from various insects. Hives also occur as part of the picture in certain infections such as virus diseases or in response to intestinal parasites. I hasten to add that I doubt that's your problem.

The allergic-type hive response can occur as a peculiar sensitivity to cold, heat or sun rays. They also develop as a result of certain drugs.

Since you have been having recurring hives fairly regularly for a month, I would think that you fall into the group of chronic hives.

THE USUAL treatment for hives is to give antihistamines because they reduce the allergic response. They will also make you sleepy. In more severe cases that don't respond to antihistamines, four days or more of Prednisone, one of the cortisone hormones, is used.

It may be necessary to put you on what doctors call an elimination diet which literally will remove all food that might possibly be inducing an allergic response and then gradually adding foods by groups. All spices, of course, are eliminated as well. The elimination diet technique may never tell you exactly which foods you were allergic to, but it might stop your problem. Of course, if you do identify which foods you are allergic to, that may enable you to avoid these entirely and thereby avoid hives. In the event that you inadvertently consume any of these, taking one of the antihistamines immediately may help avoid developing hives.

If you should be having hives because of exposure to cold, the only possible solution is to avoid it.

Insecticide repels bugs better than newsprint

Dear Dorothy: I've heard one can lay newspapers between wool garments to keep moths away. If so, how often must the paper be changed? It would certainly be less expensive than the commercial products. —Mrs. Robert Rankin

Sure would. But, much as I'm attached to newsprint, it's risky. Thought John C. Pallister, the entomologist at the American Museum of Natural History, would know. He says it was a method used long ago — before modern insecticides. He said it's possible moths might be repelled by the newsprint odor, but said he'd hate to take a chance — that the insect world keeps adjusting to each method devised to control them. Better go the commercial product route.

Dear Dorothy: I've got cupcake trouble. I've been making them, frosting and storing in a cookie tin with a tightfitting lid. By next day, the paper liners are coming off the cakes. What might be going wrong? —Mrs. Phyllis Wewetzer

It sounds like too much humidity. One possibility is that you might not be cooling the cupcakes completely before putting them away. For another, it might be worth storing in a container covered with the clear plastic that sticks to itself. That will keep them fresh and still keep out most, if not all, the moisture.

Dear Dorothy: How can surface scratches be removed from a laminated-plastic counter top? Something was pulled across the table top. —Mrs. Paul C. Avery

No guarantee with this. Try rubbing it with the popular white detergent wax used for cleaning kitchen appliances. I have the idea some of the wax might fill in the scratches.

The allergic-type hive response can occur as a peculiar sensitivity to cold, heat or sun rays. They also develop as a result of certain drugs.

Since you have been having recurring hives fairly regularly for a month, I would think that you fall into the group of chronic hives.

THE USUAL treatment for hives is to give antihistamines because they reduce the allergic response. They will also make you sleepy. In more severe cases that don't respond to antihistamines, four days or more of Prednisone, one of the cortisone hormones, is used.

It may be necessary to put you on what doctors call an elimination diet which literally will remove all food that might possibly be inducing an allergic response and then gradually adding foods by groups. All spices, of course, are eliminated as well. The elimination diet technique may never tell you exactly which foods you were allergic to, but it might stop your problem. Of course, if you do identify which foods you are allergic to, that may enable you to avoid these entirely and thereby avoid hives. In the event that you inadvertently consume any of these, taking one of the antihistamines immediately may help avoid developing hives.

If you should be having hives because of exposure to cold, the only possible solution is to avoid it.

Insecticide repels bugs better than newsprint

Dear Dorothy: I've heard one can lay newspapers between wool garments to keep moths away. If so, how often must the paper be changed? It would certainly be less expensive than the commercial products. —Mrs. Robert Rankin

Sure would. But, much as I'm attached to newsprint, it's risky. Thought John C. Pallister, the entomologist at the American Museum of Natural History, would know. He says it was a method used long ago — before modern insecticides. He said it's possible moths might be repelled by the newsprint odor, but said he'd hate to take a chance — that the insect world keeps adjusting to each method devised to control them. Better go the commercial product route.

Dear Dorothy: I've got cupcake trouble. I've been making them, frosting and storing in a cookie tin with a tightfitting lid. By next day, the paper liners are coming off the cakes. What might be going wrong? —Mrs. Phyllis Wewetzer

It sounds like too much humidity. One possibility is that you might not be cooling the cupcakes completely before putting them away. For another, it might be worth storing in a container covered with the clear plastic that sticks to itself. That will keep them fresh and still keep out most, if not all, the moisture.

Dear Dorothy: How can surface scratches be removed from a laminated-plastic counter top? Something was pulled across the table top. —Mrs. Paul C. Avery

No guarantee with this. Try rubbing it with the popular white detergent wax used for cleaning kitchen appliances. I have the idea some of the wax might fill in the scratches.

A blind man's vision

At last—museum for handicapped

by MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON —On the Fourth of July, when the Smithsonian's new Air and Space Museum opens to the public, it will be a day of liberation for America's 1.7 million blind persons and millions more who are handicapped.

At last, a museum has been built from the ground up with them in mind.

The Apollo 11 capsule which carried men to the moon will be set on its side so people in wheelchairs can look into it.

The blind will learn the history of man's ascent into the air by following the story in raised-lined pictures, sheets of paper bearing three-dimensional images which can be read with the fingertips.

The museum's brochure will be on tape cassettes and on raised-line booklets. There will be 24 cassettes, one for each gallery, with which the blind can guide themselves with verbal instructions and commentary from exhibit to exhibit.

DEAF PERSONS will receive written scripts of movies, puppet shows and audio-visual displays. These will have photographic annotations in the margins, so if a deaf person comes in late, he'll be able to catch up with the show by matching pictures in his booklet with those on the screen.

Persons with upper spinal injuries cannot move their heads to look up to see Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" and other aircraft hanging above their heads. So convex and concave mirrors, adapted to hook onto wheelchairs, have been devised.

Wheelchairs won't slip on the museum's carpet. There are no staircases, only ramps. The cafeteria counter is low enough for persons in wheelchairs to carry their own trays. Braille markings in the elevators enable the blind to know what button to push.

The book shop will sell taped and braille books on aerospace. Volunteer and professional guides will speak in sign language and will be "sensitized" to the needs of the handicapped through training.

SEATING WILL BE adequate enough to enable elderly visitors to pace themselves.

All this is the work of Harold Snider, 28, a portly, independent, good-natured and militant blind man.

He says his goal was this: "A museum where a handicapped person will be able to enjoy himself just the same as anybody else, but in different ways. You can't look at the spacecraft, so you touch it, or you hold a model of it or a raised-line picture of it. You can't see an airplane, so you hear its engine roar."

When the world watched television to see men walk on the moon, the blind could not. So Snider thought of having a moonrock embedded in plastic so the blind could touch a piece of the moon.

HE BROUGHT HIS ideas to Michael Collins, the former astronaut who is director of the museum. He says Collins agreed at once, saying, "We don't want to leave anyone out."

Snider, the first blind person ever hired by the Smithsonian, says he is trying to "sensitize" the institution's staff to the prejudice, discomfort and fear the handicapped often encounter.

He's fought it for a lifetime. His father, a dentist in Jacksonville, Fla., who is sighted, had to sue the Duval county school system to enable his son to attend ordinary schools.

Snider was graduated from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service in 1969, received a master's degree from King's College in London, then worked on his Ph.D. in British history from Oxford's New College.

HE MET A BLIND British girl and married her. They have two children, David, 5, and Ellen, 2, both of whom have normal vision.

Snider says he fought for a year and a half to take the foreign service examination, but couldn't break the State Department's prejudices. Then he found the museum and his mission.

Under Snider's direction, things at the Air and Space Museum will be different. For instance, the book shop will sell the only braille and taped books available in Washington, including Collins' book, "Carrying the Fire."

And — to Snider's knowledge, for the first time anywhere — the blind will be able to buy post cards illustrated with raised-line drawings to send to friends who also are blind.

Snider asks a favor from you. If you've read this, he says, tell a blind or handicapped person about the Air and Space Museum. He very much wants for them to visit it.

'Country Days' popular southern Illinois fest

It's a sure sign spring has sprung when banjo pickers and fiddlers start warming up for the annual Ferne Clyffe "Country Days" celebration near Goreville in southern Illinois.

The popular fest is slated for the weekend of April 24-25 at Ferne Clyffe State Park in Johnson County and the beautiful Shawnee National Forest.

Besides lots of spunky bluegrass music, the celebration will include pioneer arts and crafts demonstrations, old-fashioned games and contests, a fiddlers' jamboree, races, hikes and tours.

THE OBSERVANCE, ONE of the Illinois Dept. of Conservation's "Heritage Days" series, is designed to emphasize the cultural heritage and unique natural features of Southern Illinois.

Rural craftsmen participating in the festival will offer a wide variety of handmade items for sale. There also will be a number of demonstrations of early pioneer arts and visitors will be able to learn how southern Illinois settlers manufactured soap, candles and other necessities.

Costumed artisans will demonstrate canning, silversmithing, woodworking and wood carving. Students from the Southern Illinois University College of Forestry also will be on hand to conduct speed sawing and chopping contests and to exhibit their axe-wielding skills.

Along with frog-jumping contests, jews-harp competition and turtle races, the "Country Days" schedule includes nature hikes and interpretive wildlife and plant tours.

FERNE CLYFFE STATE Park encompasses over 1,000 acres and offers 68 campsites, picnic areas, well-maintained roads, concession stands, hiking and horseback trails. Sanitary facilities are also available. Jagged gorges, forest brooks and shady dells make for a colorful collection of trees and natural wildlife.

The purpose of the "Country Days" celebration, along with the other "Illinois Heritage Days" observances, is to recreate specific historic periods or point up outstanding natural resources through ecological and recreational activities at state parks and memorials.

The park is one mile west of Goreville in Ill. Rte. 1 and about 12 miles south of Marion. "Country Days" activities are scheduled to get under way at noon and end about 5 p.m. both days of the celebration. The fiddlers' jamboree is set for Saturday. Craft demonstrations will be conducted both days.

For more information on the festival, call or write the Illinois Adventure Center, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, 60606.

More pesetas for the dollar

The American traveler to Spain is now receiving 11 per cent more pesetas for his dollar with a new rate of exchange that went into effect earlier this month.

The new rate, brought about by a recent reversal in the upward trend of the value of the Spanish peseta, is 66.54 pesetas to the dollar or an 11 per cent increase in favor of U. S. currency.

'Country Days' popular southern Illinois fest

It's a sure sign spring has sprung when banjo pickers and fiddlers start warming up for the annual Ferne Clyffe "Country Days" celebration near Goreville in southern Illinois.

The popular fest is slated for the weekend of April 24-25 at Ferne Clyffe State Park in Johnson County and the beautiful Shawnee National Forest.

Besides lots of spunky bluegrass music, the celebration will include pioneer arts and crafts demonstrations, old-fashioned games and contests, a fiddlers' jamboree, races, hikes and tours.

THE OBSERVANCE, ONE of the Illinois Dept. of Conservation's "Heritage Days" series, is designed to emphasize the cultural heritage and unique natural features of Southern Illinois.

Rural craftsmen participating in the festival will offer a wide variety of handmade items for sale. There also will be a number of demonstrations of early pioneer arts and visitors will be able to learn how southern Illinois settlers manufactured soap, candles and other necessities.

Costumed artisans will demonstrate canning, silversmithing, woodworking and wood carving. Students from the Southern Illinois University College of Forestry also will be on hand to conduct speed sawing and chopping contests and to exhibit their axe-wielding skills.

Along with frog-jumping contests, jews-harp competition and turtle races, the "Country Days" schedule includes nature hikes and interpretive wildlife and plant tours.

FERNE CLYFFE STATE Park encompasses over 1,000 acres and offers 68 campsites, picnic areas, well-maintained roads, concession stands, hiking and horseback trails. Sanitary facilities are also available. Jagged gorges, forest brooks and shady dells make for a colorful collection of trees and natural wildlife.

The purpose of the "Country Days" celebration, along with the other "Illinois Heritage Days" observances, is to recreate specific historic periods or point up outstanding natural resources through ecological and recreational activities at state parks and memorials.

The park is one mile west of Goreville in Ill. Rte. 1 and about 12 miles south of Marion. "Country Days" activities are scheduled to get under way at noon and end about 5 p.m. both days of the celebration. The fiddlers' jamboree is set for Saturday. Craft demonstrations will be conducted both days.

For more information on the festival, call or write the Illinois Adventure Center, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, 60606.

More pesetas for the dollar

The American traveler to Spain is now receiving 11 per cent more pesetas for his dollar with a new rate of exchange that went into effect earlier this month.

The new rate, brought about by a recent reversal in the upward trend of the value of the Spanish peseta, is 66.54 pesetas to the dollar or an 11 per cent increase in favor of U. S. currency.

Stocks show best gain in weeks, Dow up 15.82

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market Monday scored its best gain in five weeks in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange amid rising hopes the Federal Reserve Board had not embarked on a major policy change.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 2.28-point gainer Friday, soared 15.82 points to 988.74, the best gain since a climb of 17.40 points Jan. 29. Some observers said the blue-chip average may be about to challenge the 1,000 level as it did nearly two weeks ago.

Most analysts, however, were dismayed the turnover amounted to only 25,060,000 shares. This was up from the 23,030,000 traded Friday, but far below the 30-million-share daily average of January and February.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.08 to 100.19, the NYSE common stock index 0.55 to 53.60 and the average price of an NYSE common share by 35 cents. Advances topped declines, 1,022 to 482, among the 1,883 issues crossing the tape.

WALL STREET investors were encouraged by published reports indicating the Fed recently had not — as feared more than a week ago — made a major policy change, but had tightened credit slightly to prevent the rapidly expanding economy and a growing national money supply from rekindling inflation.

Rates on Federal funds — the excess money banks lend one another overnight to meet reserve requirements — were steady to slightly lower during the day. The Fed neither bought nor sold to influence these funds, so money watchers were unable to determine clearly any board trend.

TelePrompTer led the Big Board actives, up 1/8 to 10 5/8 on 434,100 shares. U.S. Industries followed, up 1-1/8 to 6½ on 392,300 shares. Owens-Illinois was third, up 5/8 to 56-3/8 on 363,200 shares, including a block of 295,600 shares at 55.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased seven cents. Volume totaled 4,240,000 shares, compared with 4,060,000 traded Friday.
